BRITISH THREATEN NEW NAVAL BATTLE WITH FORMER ALLIES

MANSFIELD IN 'SANEST AND SAFEST' JULY 4

Not One Injury From Mishaps of Any Type Reported In City and County.

128 KILLED IN NATION

Galion Boy Injured When Firecracker Explodes In His Pocket.

Without a single injury reported from any cause, Mansfield and Richland county had their safest Fourth of July holiday in years.

Ohio and the rest of the nation had good holiday records too. Eleven persons died in accidents in the state, less than the usual week-end toll, while 128 deaths were reported in the nation as against 130 for the average Sunday in July.

Raymond Stevens, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Stevens of Galion, suffered burns on his body at noon Thursday when some firecrackers exploded in his pocket. They were believed to have ignited from a piece of "punk" he had in his hand.

The boy was taken to Crestline Emergency hospital for treatment, but he was not believed seriously hurt.

A hollow tree in Heise park at Galion was ignited last night by a firecracker. Firemen extinguished the blaze.

Mansfield police, Richland county sheriff's deputies, and state highway patrolmen investigated four or five automobile collisions, but no one was hurt in any of them.

Officers attributed the county's accident-free record partly to the Mansfield Public Parks association's "safe and sane" celebration at the Fairground where a huge crowd saw a program and fireworks display yesterday and last night.

Only two fireworks fatalities were reported in the nation yesterday by the Associated Press.

NEAR HOME

Prospect of Naval Battle In West Indies Seen.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The prospect of a battle between French and British navy units in American waters was foreseen today when it was learned in Washington that a British destroyer squadron was blockading the French-owned West Indian island of Martinique.

On the island, according to reports reaching diplomatic circles in Washington, is a large shipment of American-made warplanes purchased by France as well as sizeable gold stocks.

Protecting the French property, it was said, was a submarine flotilla flying the flag of France.

At the same time, reports from abroad that the French government had severed diplomatic relations with Great Britain were causing grave concern in official American diplomatic quarters. It was pointed out that both France and Great Britain have island possessions in the West Indies.

DETAIN SHIPS

418 Vessels of Warring Nations In U. S. Ports.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A survey of foreign ships in American waters made liable to detention under President Roosevelt's recent proclamation disclosed today 418 vessels, most of which belong to belligerent or invaded countries.

They include 120 British, 76 Norwegian, 36 Danish, 25 Italian, 23 Dutch, 11 French, 9 Belgian, 2 German, and 2 Rumanian ships.

CLOSE COUNTY

British Ban Public From South Coast Area.

LONDON—(AP)—The public today was banned by the home office from entering any part of the south coast county of Sussex, a large part of the county of Hampshire, including the big naval base of Portsmouth and the important shipping center of Southampton.

Thousands of spectators were delighted last night by the Mansfield Parks association's big fireworks spectacle at the Richland county Fairground as hundreds of bombs, rockets and set pieces lighted the sky for nearly an hour. At the upper left is shown a replica of Niagara Falls in a huge fireworks piece. In the picture at the top right, one of the whirligig rockets outlines a fiery arc in the sky. The afternoon program was a busy one, too, and in the lower lefthand picture, Harry Constance of the Johns Park association, left, is shown awarding prizes to winners in the bicycle race. The winners are, left to right, Gordon Crose, first; Clinton Zeigler, second, and Jack Ellsworth, third. The happy little girl at the right is Mary Heichel, 7, of 13 Harmon avenue, who found 11 pennies in the penny hunt to win first prize.

GIVES REPORT ON ROOF DRAINS

City Engineer Says Water From 2,937 Roofs Flows Into Sanitary Sewers.

A survey of roof drains, recently completed by the WPA revealed today that more than 30 per cent of Mansfield property owners are diverting roof water into the sanitary sewer system.

This is a condition that city officials have sought to remedy for years, and the reason, they assert, for the "water-in-the-cellar" problem that plagues hundreds of residents during rainy periods.

State department of health officials have recommended the removal of the storm water from the sanitary sewers and city council several years ago passed legislation prohibiting the connection of roof drains to the sanitary system but it has never been enforced.

Compilation of the survey figures, released today by City Engineer W. C. Statler, disclosed that 2,937 residences of the 9,636

30,000 Crowd Fairground To Watch Fireworks Show

Throng Jams All Available Space to See Huge Annual Spectacle—City, County, State Police Keep Order.

By VIRGIL A. STANFIELD

Mansfield forgot its worries yesterday and enjoyed its biggest Fourth of July in recent years.

A crowd estimated at more than 30,000 persons, one of the largest in the city's history, jammed every corner of the Fairground last night to see a spectacular fireworks display that climaxed the annual program sponsored by the Mansfield Public Parks association.

With business places and public offices closed in the city, hundreds of Mansfielders went to Lake Erie resorts, Mohican State park near Loudonville, and other nearby picnic grounds for the day.

The Dodson's World Fair shows, appearing all this week at the Armory show lot, also attracted hundreds of persons with a special afternoon performance and night fireworks.

In contrast to last year's celebration which was spoiled by rain, the show at the Fairground last night was presented in ideal weather, and Parks association officials said it was easily the most successful they

FATHER HELD

Shoots and Kills Daughter in Convent School.

VALHALLA, N. Y. —(U.P.)— The 67 girls in St. Mary's-in-the-Field school today mourned for their chum, Melba Moshell, 15, who was shot and killed by her father while a nun looked helplesssly on in the parlor of the Episcopalian convent here.

Joseph Moshell, the father, who fired one shot into his own chest, was in jail here charged with first degree murder. He owns three dry cleaning establishments in Philadelphia.

Moshell was divorced from Melba's mother who died eight months ago, and had remarried.

O. S. R. Inmates, One From Richland, Steal Auto, Flee

Taking a visitor's automobile, two Ohio State reformatory trusties, one granted a parole effective Nov. 10 and the other scheduled for a parole hearing next week, fled from the institution yesterday.

They were identified as Joe Miller, 24, Summit county, and Charles Diehl, 23, of Richland county.

Miller, committed Nov. 27, 1937, was serving a 10 to 25 year sentence for robbery, reformatory officials said, and had been granted a parole effective Nov. 10

Diehl was serving a one to 20 year term for forgery and was scheduled to come before the Ohio Parole and Pardon commission next week for a hearing.

Officials said the pair was discovered missing about 3 p. m. when John Furrow, Sidney, visiting an inmate at the institution, reported the theft of his automobile.

Furrow said he had parked the machine in the main driveway near the front gate. The ignition keys were in the car. He told officials he had borrowed the automobile to come to Mansfield.

Prison officials said both trusties had good records and were among the few that were working outside the walls during the Fourth of July holiday.

Miller, they said, was working in the greenhouse, just east of the administration building and had "reported in" by telephone at 2 p. m. Diehl was working on the poultry farm along Olivesburg road. He was missed shortly after the 3 p. m. check.

The escape was the first reported in nearly a month and occurred while Supt. Arthur L. Glattke is vacationing in northern Michigan.

BOARD SHIP

Americans On Last Liner To Leave War Zone.

GALWAY, Ireland—(U.P.)—Americans who swarmed into this Irish port for "positively the last boat" to the United States until the war ends began boarding the U. S. liner Washington today.

The Washington, which reached Galway harbor last night, will embark 1,800 Americans who came here from Britain and the European continent. Originally listed to sail at high tide tonight, the liner probably will not leave until late Saturday night or Sunday.

FAIR TRADE

Would Gladly Give Tiger for Patagonian Cavies

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Any tapirs, capybaras or Patagonian cavies to trade?

Kansas City needs them for its zoo. It offers Tom and Virgie, 20-months old tiger cubs, and Spot and Spangles, two-year-old leopards, for exchange.

OFFERS PLANTS TO MAKE ARMS

Westinghouse Maps Facilities Available to U. S.; Mansfield Not in Program.

Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company today had offered certain of its facilities to the government for production of arms and ammunitions in line with the national defense program, according to an announcement made by A. W. Robertson, chairman of the board, at Pittsburgh.

The Mansfield plant, however, is not included in the facilities which were offered the government, a spokesman for Robertson told the News-Journal today.

"The normal operations of our plants will not be affected by this program," the spokesman said, "and there is no present intention of diverting the Mansfield plant into a munitions factory or anything like it." L. E. Osborne, manager of manufacturing and engineering of the Mansfield plant, confirmed this statement today, saying that the plant here was not "at this time" included in the defense picture.

Robertson said that Westinghouse had "enlisted for the duration of the preparedness period. "We have no liking for war and no expectation of abnormal profits," he said, "but we wish to aid in the preparedness program in every way."

The head of the $200,000,000 company made a survey of all facilities of all the Westinghouse plants and then took the results of the survey to Washington where he discussed them with President Roosevelt and William S. Knudsen, of the advisory committee on defense production.

ALL RADICALS BEING SEIZED IN NEW YORK

Police Promise Full Probe of Bombing Yesterday at World's Fair.

TWO OFFICERS KILLED

Infernal Machine Removed From British Pavilion Before Explosion.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—All known radicals in the Metropolitan area were rounded up today as police made an unprecedented effort to track down those responsible for a bomb explosion which killed two police detectives and injured five other persons at the world's fair.

Stirred into drastic action by New York City's third bombing in two weeks, Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine ordered his entire department to concentrate on the case.

Protesting agitators were hauled down from soap boxes in Columbus Circle, the "Red Rendezvous," and rushed unceremoniously to police headquarters. Others were seized in downtown haunts; still others were routed from bed.

Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia declared, "There will be a most thorough investigation, and there won't be any letup."

Two of those injured were in critical condition today.

The bomb, a flame-thrower and disguised as a portable radio, was intended to destroy the British pavilion. Put on the alert by a telephone call Tuesday that "the place is going to be blown up," a pavilion employe noticed the small bag in the fan room yesterday afternoon, took it to a deserted spot about 150 yards from the Polish pavilion and notified authorities.

An hour and a half later, the bomb exploded as members of the bomb squad pryed cautiously into the bag.

The blast was so terrific that hats, strips of clothing and fragments of bodies were hurled through the air over a 50-foot

REJECT WARNING

Germans Turn Down Hull's American Policy.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The German government, in a formal note made public by the state department today, rejected this country's warning to keep hands off the western hemisphere.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler's government at the same time, however, said Germany had given no indication of any desire to interfere in the western hemisphere or to seek territory here.

The Berlin foreign office said that, therefore, it could see no reason why the American "hands off" warning had been addressed to the German government.

Berlin also coupled its rejection with a declaration that if the American republics expected to obtain respect for the principles stated in the Monroe Doctrine of non-interference with affairs in the American continent by European nations, they should likewise refrain from interference in the affairs of Europe.

MOVE FOUGHT

Union Threatens Strike Before Going to Marion.

DETROIT — (AP) — Michael J. Manning, president of a United Automobile Workers (CIO) local union, filed Wednesday with the state labor board the five-day notice required by state law of intent to call a strike at the plant of Universal Cooler Corp. here.

Manning said the union believes the company's plan to move its plant to Marion, O., is an attempt to evade conditions of a collective bargaining agreement with the union.

BOY RESCUED

SANDUSKY — (AP) — Edward Lacher heard a splash near a Sandusky pier where six-year-old James Murphy of Fostoria had been playing yesterday. Leaping in, Lacher pulled the child to the safety of a boat. The boy was on an outing with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Murphy.

France Severs All Relations With England

Petain Government Objects to Short Notice Given By London; Gives New Details of Greatest Sea Fight of War.

(By Associated Press)

Great Britain kept powerful units of the French fleet bottled up in Alexandria harbor today—ready to attack at the first gesture of defiance—as the German-mastered French government broke off diplomatic relations with its old ally.

"We do not know what will happen or when the French will make a decision," British circles at Alexandria said.

"We only know that no French ship shall ever leave Alexandria to surrender to the enemy."

It was clearly indicated that any French attempt to slip out of the harbor would result in a repetition of yesterday's Anglo-French naval action in the western Mediterranean—the greatest sea battle of the war.

New details of the flaming sea clash at Oran, French naval base in the Mediterranean, were disclosed in a French admiralty communique.

The French battleship Bretagne was blown up, it said, and the battleships Dunkerque and Provence and the flotilla leader Mogador were set on fire by long-range British shelling.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in his speech to the house of commons describing the battle yesterday, had said the fast new 26,500-ton battleship Dunkerque or her sister ship escaped in the fight.

The French communique asserted that the six-hour ultimatum delivered by the British for the French either to surrender or scuttle their ships did not give the French fleet time to weigh anchor before the British opened fire.

Apparently many of the French ships had no steam up when the ultimatum was received.

"Vice Admiral Gensoul replied (to the British ultimatum) that there could be no question of the French fleet joining the British fleet or being scuttled, and that he would meet force with force," the communique said.

While the British acted decisively to prevent the French fleet from aiding Hitler's projected invasion of the British Isles, German and Italian warplanes yesterday sniped at two British naval bases.

Italian planes twice showered bombs on Alexandria, England's great base in the Mediterranean, attacking both French and British warships at anchor in the harbor. The toll: 15 killed, 7 wounded.

A German raid on England's home naval base at Portland, on the southwest coast, killed 11 civilians.

The Nazi high command also reported German U-boats, in a new outburst of undersea warfare, had sunk more than 85,000 tons of British merchant ship-

REVENGE: Berlin Promises France Aid Against Britain

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—Germany has promised to aid the French government in avenging British naval sinkings and seizures of French warships, it was stated reliably in Berlin today.

On the heels of official notification to Germany by the French Petain government that it has severed diplomatic relations with Britain, authentic information in Berlin disclosed that the reich, in effect, informed France:

"We will do everything possible to enable France to counteract in similar manner the English attack on the French navy."

This, combined with the bitterness of the French government at Vichy against England, was regarded by German authorities as foreshadowing costly French retaliation against England.

The French are in position to deliver a heavy blow, German quarters stressed, since approximately 100 of the most modern French submarines are still at large.

On this basis it can be assumed that the reich for the time being has suspended clauses in the Franco-German armistice agreement obligating the French fleet to remain inactive in French harbors.

Henceforth, it was believed in Berlin, the French fleet and all its affiliated branches will be entitled to draw munitions, fuel and food supplies from any convenient German or Italian port and pursue

FIGHTING: Rumanian, Soviet Troops Clash on Frontier Lines

(By United Press)

BUCHAREST—The Rumanian general staff said today that fighting broke out Wednesday between Rumanian and Soviet troops when the Russians advanced beyond the frontiers set for their occupation of Rumanian territory.

A communique of the general staff said the Russians advanced at two points beyond the limits of territory which they were to occupy under the soviet ultimatum.

Loss of life occurred in the fighting, the general staff reported.

The general staff communique said:

"Along the northern frontier, soviet Russsian troop at two points were sent beyond the line of demarcation, resulting in armed conflict and loss of life.

"At a later date, we shall publish the names of Rumanian officers and soldiers who fell while doing their duty."

Foreign military circles here said the clashes might explain in part the Wednesday night broadcast warning the Rumanian population to be alert for parachute troops.

The panic among civilians which started north of Iassy and spread southward to Galatz, where hundreds of rioting dock workers were killed earlier in the week, has reached Constanza, Rumania's largest seaport, where, it was reported, a mass exodus is under way.

Spokesman of the new pro-Nazi government, admitting that panicky flights were in progress, said the government's attitude was that if civilians wished to move west, putting greater distance be-

Mansfield Scores Twin Victory Over Mud Hens

Defeat Tiffin 8 to 7 In 1st, 10 to 8 In 2nd

Stover and Hundemer Share Batting Honors; Laurila, Angaran Get Victories.

By GEORGE SATTLER

STILL smarting under a 10 to 5 defeat handed them by Tiffin Wednesday, the Braves lashed back twice to capture both ends of a doubleheader from the Mud Hens yesterday at Tiffin.

Getting only nine hits to 11 for Tiffin in the opener, the Braves staged a three-run rally in the eighth inning to nose out the Hens, 8 to 7. The Braves won easily in the nightcap, 10 to 7.

Even home runs by Budd and Campau in the first game couldn't stop the rampaging Braves, as Angaran pitched the Mansfield outfit to victory.

Both games were marked by heaving hitting and heavier and hotter arguments, with Tiffin doing most of it. At the end of the final game, the umpires had to ask the Mansfield squad to escort them to their automobiles.

Hundemer, Mansfield star secondbaseman, and Manager Dewey Stover shared the batting limelight. Hundemer got a homer and a double in the first game and two singles in the second battle, one of them a double Mansfield's 12 runs in the first game came in the first, sixth and eighth innings The Braves pushed over three in the first frame, two in the sixth, and three in the crucial eighth inning. Hundemer scored three, Stover, two, and Woodten, Morse and Angaran one apiece.

In the second fracas the Braves opened up in the first with two, then came back for four in the third, one in the fifth, and three in the seventh. Laurilla was credited with the win for Mansfield.

Today the Braves meet the Tiffin Mudhens at Tiffin, and Manager Dewey Stover has selected Tony Drewek to take over the mound duties

On Sunday, the Braves return to Mansfield to tackle the Mudhens again in a doubleheader, the first game starting at 2:30 and the second at 8:45. Laurilla and Angaran have been slated to toe the rubber for Mansfield

In the rest of the league yesterday, Findlay swept both ends of a double header from Fostoria, 14 to 0 and 6 to 5

Lima, with 10 successive victories split a twin bill with Fremont dropping the opener 6 to 3, and coming back in the nightcap 6 to 4

Billy Jurges Out of All-Star Contest.

NEW YORK —(INS)— The National league offices today announced that Billy Jurges, Giants' shortstop, would be unable to play in the National-American league all-star game in St. Louis next Tuesday.

Eddie Miller, infielder for the Boston Bees, has been chosen to replace Jurges who was injured by a "bean ball" last week.

BREAKS OWN RECORD.

UNIONTOWN, Pa. —(AP)— James Wilburn of Los Angeles broke his claimed world's record of 21.578 seconds for the half-mile to a new mark of 21.48 in the Independence Day automobile races here. He set the old mark at Winchester Ind., last week.

Wreckers Cop 7-2 Decision

Defeat Columbus All-Stars At Marion Tourney.

Never threatened at any time during the seven innings, the Mansfield Wreckers softball club gained a 7 to 2 decision over the Tuttle All-Stars of Columbus yesterday at Marion Garfield park in Marion Fullager, who joined the Wreckers to bolster their pitching staff for the Marion softball tournament, allowed only seven hits. Fullager is the ace hurler for the Sons of Herman club.

Sticker, Wreckers' ace, got three hits out of four trips to the batter's box and scored a triple. The Mansfield club smashed out 10 hits in the contest.

It was the first start for the Columbus-owned horse since running five and one-half furlongs in 1:06 for a track record at North Randall.

NEW YORK—The All-Star baseball game (or what is supposed to be) is on tap but, unless you are an avid reader of the daily sports pages, perhaps it's still a secret.

The game is scheduled for St. Louis the afternoon of Tuesday, July 9, and it will be the eighth successive inter-league tilt. But the All-Star game of today has lost favor with both fans and players

A glance at the selections made by the respective managers is one of the reasons. While most of the players selected are well known and established stars, their play this year has been overshadowed by a group not even given a bid.

McCosky Absent.

Baseball fans everywhere ask why Barney McCosky, Detroit's hard-hitting outfielder, was left off? Why was Rip Radcliff, the Browns' leading hitter, forgotten? How about Al Smith, leading twirler of the Indians? And Dixie Walker, second in league batting for Brooklyn? And Eddie Miller of the Bees, the highest-priced shortstop in the National league?

To get back to the game. This will be the eighth, and the Nationals will be trying to gain their third victory in the series, the Americans having won five thus far. Last year, the Americans won, 3-1, in a game held in New York. Other All-Star games were held in Chicago, Cleveland, Washington, New York, Boston and Cincinnati.

A glance at the rosters of the two teams gives the American league a decided edge in pitching and also in batting. Bob Feller, Cleveland's fireball star, probably will open the game for the A. L. All-Stars with either Carl Hubbell of the Giants or Bucky Walters of the Reds in the box for the Nationals.

Foxx Only Veteran.

Of all the players selected, only Jimmy Foxx of the Boston Red Sox has the honor of having been named for all eight All-Star games. Mel Ott of the Giants and Billy Herman of the Cubs are the National league veterans. Each has been in every game but the first. Hubbell, also, is a veteran.

The entire Red Sox outfield is on the A. L. team. An important addition is the Cleveland rookie second base combination of Ray Mack and Lou Boudreau. This is their first full year in the majors and each was picked for the team.

Only three home town boys will get into the game. George McQuinn of the Browns and Johnny Mize and Terry Moore of the Cardinals.

Notable absentees this year are Joe Cronin, Lefty Grove, Frank Crosetti, Lefty Gomez, Dolph Camilli, Bill Lee, Ival Goodman, Johnny Vander Meer and Lon Warneke.

Canton Holds Loop Lead

Terriers on Top Despite Double Defeat.

CANTON, O. —(AP)— Independence Day double-headers left the Mid-Atlantic league standings somewhat rumbled today, but even a double defeat couldn't shake Canton's tenacious terriers out of first place.

The Dayton wings took yesterday's opener from Canton, 8 to 0, and came back in the second to win 3 to 2 in 11 innings. The victories moved Dayton from last to fifth place.

Youngstown also moved up a notch to third place with 8 to 2 and 10 to 5 wins over Portsmouth's cellar dwelling Red Birds.

Charleston's Senators split a twin bill with the Akron Yankees, taking the first 3 to 2 in a pitchers battle but dropping the nightcap decision to the Yanks, 9 to 6.

Merchants Get Twin Decision Over Wilkes

MANSFIELD'S Merchant Girls showed plenty of power and zip yesterday as they steamrollered the Wilke Meats, Columbus softball club, 5 to 1 in the first game, and 15 to 14 in the second, to take both ends of a doubleheader.

To Clark, Merchant ace, should go the lion's share of the credit for the twin decision. Pitching a sparkling two-hitter in the first contest, Clark banged out a double with three on in the second to drive in the winning runs.

Sturgeon, Merchant rover, and Shuster, Merchant third baseman, copped hitting honors with three hits each in the two contests.

Although getting only a two-hit total for both games, Holda, Mansfield shortstop, shared with Clark the limelight for effective hitting. Holda homered in the fifth frame of the first game to drive in a badly-needed two runs.

Indians Split 2 With Tigers to Keep Loop Lead

Tribe Drops First Game, Then Comes Back to Cop Second In 11 Innings.

CLEVELAND—It took 20 tough innings to do it, but the Cleveland Indians held those Tigers and their one-game lead for first place.

And with the decisive battle of Detroit disposed of successfully, the Indians came home to relax today before opening a two-game series here against the White Sox.

Losing ground under the fire of Tommy Bridges' five-hit pitching, the Tribe dropped the first game of yesterday's doubleheader 5 to 3, then survived the 11-inning nightcap pitching duel to win 2 to 1. A single by Roy Weatherly, Ray Mack's sacrifice and Beau Bell's one-base hit produced the deciding run

Al Milnar allowed only four hits in the first eight innings of the second, then yielded two in the ninth which were good for the Tigers' lone run and one more early in the tenth. Johnny Allen finished and got credit for the victory. Cleveland reached Newhouser and his successor, Al Benton, for only six hits while the Tigers collected seven off the two Indian hurlers.

Bridges held the Tribe hitless for five and two-thirds innings in the opener and had no trouble until the eighth.

The Tigers touched Al Smith for eight safe blows in seven innings and got three more off Joe Dobson, who relieved him.

SPORTS PARADE

By HENRY McLEMORE
(UP Staff Correspondent)

EASTHAMPTON, N. Y. —(U.P.)— This is being written as the Fourth of July lacks only an hour or two of being the fifth of July, and I am in a quandary as to which of two subjects to use as a text for today's lesson.

One subject that fascinates me concerns the shooting of July 4th fireworks by adults, and when I say adults I mean these men and women who have passed thirty, forty, fifty and sixty. It is when firecrackers are placed in such hands that they become a menace.

I have never spent a more uncomfortable 60 seconds than I did last night when the senior member of the house party—a broker of 43, who owns his own business—stepped to the middle of the lawn and took personal charge of a $2.50 skyrocket.

The gentleman waves us back to the porch, and with the manner of a sergeant handling a bomb, dragged his menace to life and limb to a spot in the yard some 20 yards in front of us.

He stabbed the skyrocket into the ground in such a position that it was aimed directly at the windows of the dining room and paid no attention to our cries of "Hey, not this way." And "point the damb thing out toward the ocean."

From the moment the first spark showed, it was dreadful. As if transfixed, he did not move as the flame ran toward the rocket. This despite the fact that the rocket had slumped a bit, and, to get to the dining room windows, it first had to pass through his legs.

Women screamed and huddled in a corner of the porch. Men, many of whom had served in France during the World war 1, sought refuge back of the swing.

The broker moved not an inch.

Red, yellow, blue and green the broker cursed as the charge ripped off half a pants' leg, singed a Wall Street calf, and threatened his very life. Finally he beat out the flames and fought his way to safety among the women.

His first words were these, and they were addressed to his wife: "Louise, promise me this. Promise me that you'll never let the children handle fireworks again. They're dangerous if not handled in the right way. They're for grown-ups."

Records Fall In Association

Unusual Feats Achieved This Week.

(By Associated Press)

"A record a day" appears to be the current slogan of the American Association.

Yesterday league leading Minneapolis started with one record, got the fever and wound up with three broken and another equalled. Here they are:

Eight home runs (four by Ab Wright) in one game; fifty total bases in one game, one better than the old record set in 1932 by Minneapolis; four home runs in one game by Wright tied the mark set by Dale Alexander of Kansas City in 1935; nineteen total bases in one game by Wright (he also hit a triple) broke the previous total of 16 held by Alexander.

Even so, the best the Millers got out of their holiday double header was an even split with St. Paul, 3-2 and 17-5, the Saints taking the opener.

Kansas City stayed four points behind Minneapolis in the standings when it whipped Milwaukee 8 to 4 in the second game after losing the opener 7 to 5. At Columbus Toledo won the afternoon game, 5 to 3, and dropped the night affair, 2 to 1.

Inmates Blank Josephs, 10-0

Martin, Reformatory Hurler, Pitches 3-Hitter.

With Ohio State Reformatory's baseball club hitting its batting stride and Martin, Inmate hurler, inflicting a three-hit squeeze, the O. S. R. had little trouble blanking the St. Josephs of Cuyahoga Falls 10 to 0 yesterday at the Reformatory diamond.

Out of the 29 batters who faced him, Martin fanned 17 to get better than a 50 per cent strike out average for the day.

Holliday, Inmate leftfielder, copped batting honors with three hits out of three trips to the platter, while White and Bunday poled out homers for the Reformatory lads.

Redlegs Win 2 Games

Bucky Walters Hangs Up 11th Victory, Thompson Gets 10th.

CINCINNATI — (AP) —Today the baseball seers are supposed to stare into the frosted glass and say with authority who is to inherit the earth in October. The Cincinnati Reds, after a quick stare, can say they see nothing spelling Brooklyn.

They may still be in second place, a game behind the valiant Dodgers, but the cousinly Pittsburgh Pirates are still in town, the Boston Bees may win a game from the Dodgers, and there are 88 games left to the season.

Milkman Jim Turner is the Reds' pitcher in their plan to sweep the Pirate series. Deacon Danny MacFayden is the opposition.

The holiday twin bill demonstrated again that Frankie Frisch has done little to eliminate the affection the Pirates have for the Reds. It was the fourth straight doubleheader won by Cincinnati, tying a National league record, and the Reds' seventh and eighth victories in nine tries against the Pirates. The scores, with Bucky Walters and Gene Thompson hanging up their 11th and tenth wins, respectively, were 9 to 1 and 3 to 1.

The first game was featured by a healthy return to hitting by the Reds, including Walters himself, who got two singles. The nightcap was another of Thompson's three-hitters, marred only by his seven walks.

Meanwhile the Cincinnati front office pulled a minor coup in the purchase of one Mike Dejan, an outfielder currently hitting .402 for the Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern association, for $30,000. Dejan reports after the Southern all-star game in Nashville Monday.

REDS PURCHASE STAR IN SOUTHERN LEAGUE

CINCINNATI —(INS)— The Cincinnati Reds today announced the purchase of Outfielder Mike Dejan from Chattanooga in the Southern Association for an undisclosed amount of cash and a player to be named at a later date.

Dejan, who started as a pitcher, bats left-handed and throws right-handed, and is six feet three inches tall. He is hitting .403, and has smacked 17 homers and riven in 80 runs. He will report July 10.

YORK, Pa.—A friend tried to stump mailman "Happy" Roland by sending a letter bearing this inscription:

"Look, Dick, see that boy? Tom is his father.

In a lower corner was this challenge to Roland:

"Hi ya Happy, see if you can dope this out."

Roland did. He delivered the letter to Dixie (Dick See) Thompson (Tom's son).

SAILS AGAIN

BOSTON—(U.P.)—The old, four-masted wooden schooner Helen Barnet Gring has been called from retirement to help fill a war-time demand for shipping.

Purchased by Capt. William F. Plummer of Bath, Me., the vessel is sailing between Boston and Norfolk, Va., as a coal carrier. A 202-foot ship, the Gring was forced into retirement at the close of the World war when oil and steam shipping drove windjammers from the seas as cargo ships.

Nick's Smile Still In There

Ohio State Tank Stars Clash At AAU Swimming Meet

SANTA BARBARA, Calif.—(AP)—The old, old story of two friendly rivals of the springboard, Al Patnik and Earl Clark, was ready for its final chapter today as the national A. A. U. men's outdoor swimming and diving championship tournament swung into the second of its four day run at this Pacific coast resort town.

Beaten only once in his four-year reign, Patnik seemed doomed to bow out in defeat before his best friend and roommate at Ohio State university—Earl Clark.

Clark defeated him in the three-meter for the national intercollegiate title at Yale last April, and yesterday outscored him in the qualifying flight for today's finals, with 164.32 points to Patnik's 154.26. Clark holds the platform championship, and defends that Sunday.

Otto Jaretz of the Towers club, Chicago, yesterday cracked the 220-yard freestyle record set in 1927 by Johnny Weissmuller when he traveled the distance in 2 minutes, 13 1-10 seconds. Weissmuller's record was 2 minutes, 13 6-10 seconds.

Experts See Pat Comiskey As Only Heavyweight With Possibilities.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Pat Comiskey, the tall, blond puncher from Paterson, N. J., still looks like the only heavyweight in the country who might, in time, give Joe Louis a real fight for his title.

Comiskey has improved tremendously in the last eight months, since his meteoric rise was slowed temporarily by the cagey veteran, Steve Dudas, and he looks now as if he will go on to challenge for the crown.

There is a strong possibility that he will be signed today to fight Buddy Baer in the fall. If Pat gets past the younger of the Baers, then it is a fairly safe bet that we will see him climb through the ropes and have his try at the big Negro about a year from now.

It might take a little longer than that for Comiskey to get thoroughly ready, but some smart boxing men around this town don't think so. Al Weill, who manages Lou Ambers, Arturo Godoy and about 40 others, is one of the latest to climb on the Comiskey bandwagon.

"When I seen him the other night I couldn't hardly believe my eyes," Al volunteered. "The kid's got a nifty left now to go with that right of his."

Pat always could knock them bowlegged with his right. But he had no left at all the first time he fought Dudas, and the veteran made a monkey of him at times. Since then he must have spent hours a day perfecting a left.

Comiskey is some six feet, three inches tall and superbly built. He weighs 209 pounds now and probably will put on 10 more within a year.

Heroes and Goats

(By International News Service)

HEROES — Vito Tamulis, Dodgers, who gave the Giants only three hits in the second game as the Dodgers took two; Gene Thompson, Reds, who duplicated the Tamulis performance as the Reds took a pair from the Pirates.

GOATS—Roxie Lawson, Browns, who failed to last an inning against the White Sox; Herb Hash, Red Sox, who failed to last an innings against the Yanks; the Yanks and White Sox each winning two games.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK—(AP)—Chitter Chatter: If you believe in signs and traditions, get your dough down on the Dodgers and the Indians—they were leading July 4. . . . They sued Signor Galento for his share of the Baer fight, but Tony out-smarted 'em. He sold $13,000 worth of pasteboards at his Orange pub and is holding onto the dough—just about his share, less managers' cuts. . . . Those Browns are getting so tough they're even pitching Master Feller against them.

ACCORDING TO HOYLE.

Sing hey the merry Dodgers
And sing hey the Indian Tribe,
They're likely first place lodgers
It's a fact you can not hide;
For song and story has it, and it isn't just a gag—
The team that leads on July Fourth is sure to win the flag.

FOUL TIPS.

Max Baer's horoscope said he was due for an upset in July, and a palmist told him the same thing. . . . The wires yesterday confirmed our story that Buddy Rosar of the Yanks would be married July 9 (despite Joe McCarthy's no-marrying-in-mid-season edict). . . . Walter Hagen has offered to bet $1,000 the U. S. Ryder Cup team beats Squire Gene Sarazen's All-Stars in their Red Cross match at Detroit July 16-17. . . . Dizzy Dean's grandma still is urging him to quit baseball and become an old-time revival preacher.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Dan Parker, N. Y. Mirror: "I think I voice the sentiments of thousands of boxing fans when I express the hope that we have heard the last of this uncouth, unfunny, unskilled, unethical and unspeakable braggart whom Baer so thoroughly defeated . . . Galento dragged boxing from its usual habitat in the gutter into the sewer."

GOOFY KNUCKLES DOWN.

El Goofy Gomez, who used to toss a knuckle ball in the Pacific Coast league, used it for the first time in the majors while beating Washington the other day. . . . When Jackie Hayes (who almost lost his eyesight) returns to the White Sox line-up, he'll wear a special helmet as protection while batting. . . . Both George Kelly, Boston Bee coach, and Mike Kelly, who guards third for the Pirates, used the same exhortation to batters: "Get a good ball, kid, get a good one." . . . The old County Cork clan cry, mebbe.

NON-STOPPER.

This is the 85th day of the big league baseball season . . . and Buck Newsom of Detroit is undefeated in 84 of them . . . Buck hasn't lost a game since the Browns beat him, 5-1, in the opener.

BOOK TELLS OF PIONEER DAYS IN WISCONSIN

'Winds of Spring' Tells Story of Ornithologist; Sinclair Offers New Book.

The story of the "best field ornithologist in America" is told in Walter Havighurst's new book, at Mansfield Public library, "The Winds of Spring," written about the pioneer days in Wisconsin In the light of world events, a timely book by Upton Sinclair, "World's End," deals with the life of an American boy and his friendship for a German boy and an English boy in the first World War.

A book by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, "This Is Our China," combines travel, economics and social problems and presents a new insight into China as well as the personality of the autho

THE WINDS OF SPRING by Walter Havighurst is a story of pioneer days in Wisconsin from the early 1840's to about 1870. The hero, Jan Carl Sorenson, is not the ordinary pioneer but an aristocrat and a scholar who after thirty years still lives in a log cabin. He was called by Agassiz "the best field ornithologist in America." Like Audubon he cared nothing for material success for himself or for his family, but was content to pursue his studies with untiring patience.

WORLD'S END by Upton Sinclair is the story of a cosmopolitan, an American boy, in his teens at the beginning of the first World war. His friendship with two lads, one English and the other German, pictures both sides of the conflict. The fact that his father is a munitions maker and his uncle a socialist creates contrast in the plot.

QUIETLY MY CAPTAIN WAITS by Evelyn Eaton is an exciting romance about Madame Louise de Freneuse of Acadia. The daily life and the petty jealousies of a frontier out-post form the background of the story.

OTHER FICTION: GOLDEN PORTAGE by Case: COWBOY COMES A-FIGHTIN' by Robertson: DEATH IN THE SUN by Saxby.

Non-Fiction List.

THIS IS OUR CHINA by Madame Chiang Kai-Shek combines the qualities of a book of travel, a book of economics and a book of social problems. The First Lady of China discusses the efforts of the Chinese leaders and people in recent years to achieve national unity and better the social and economic conditions This book gives one a new insight into the problems besetting China's path toward modernization. Also we gain an appreciation of the author's courageous personality.

AS STEEL GOES by Robert R. R. Brooks, author of "Unions of Their Own Choosing," discusses the effects of unionism in a basic industry. He admits a bias in his writing, based on hopes for the further development of peaceful, cooperative, democratic, collective bargaining.

THE OTHER GERMANY by Erika and Klaus Mann presents the case of the German people, as contrasted with the ruling group of Nazis. They show why the first German Republic failed.

Other non-fiction includes: A PLAN FOR GROWING UP by Davis; WHAT'S YOUR ALLERGY? by Farmer & Hexter; DESIGN AND FIGURE CARVING by Tangerman; A HISTORY OF AMERICAN GRAPHIC HUMOR by Mutrell. HARMONY IN INTERIORS by Seeley.

MODERN AMERICAN PAINTING by Boswell; MUSIC AS A PROFESSION by Taubman; SHAESPEARE: A REVIEW AND A PREVIEW; THREE PORTRAITS: HITLER, MUSSOLINI, STALIN by Ludwig; SOLDIER OF THE CHURCH: THE LIFE OF IGNATIUS LOYOLA by Marcuse; PORTRAIT OF A LIBRARIAN: WILLIAM HOWARD BRETT by Eastman

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

A family story of pioneer times and the experiences of a doctor in the Blue Ridge mountains are the stories to be added to the display in the children's room this week. Both girls and boys above the fifth grade will like the first one and older boys will prefer the doctor story.

FARAWAY TRAIL by Charlie May Simon—Susannah Blair with her father and grandmother, brother and sister moved west from Tennessee soon after the Gold Rush. They settled in the mountain region of Arkansas and established their new home there. Susannah loved the hills as much as Katie Lou loved pretty things and city life, but her brother Luke longed for travel and the faraway trail.

HILL DOCTOR, by Hubert Skidmore—The same York Allen whose story was begun in RIVER RISING! appears again here. By this time he has completed his course in medical school and has returned to his mountain people to cure their ills. His greatest enemies are the outsiders who are trying to buy timber from the hill people. The experiences of a pioneering country doctor are excitingly told.

PENNY IN BRAIN

SEATTLE, Wash.—(U.P.)—A Seattle slaughterhouse uncovered a miniature bonanza when butchers came up with a 1928 penny from the brain of a Holstein cow. It was found in the left front section of the brain and was believed to have been "sniffed up" by the cow while the animal was grazing.

PREDICT DOOM OF STURGEON IN U. S. WATERS

Californians Say America's Largest Water Fish Soon Will Be Extinct.

SACRAMENTO, Cal. —(U.P.)— Veteran commercial fishermen along the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers are convinced that the sturgeon, largest fresh water fish in North America, will never make a comeback and will soon be extinct in California waters.

State fish and game wardens patrolling the river system report that old-time commercial fishermen who have been working the area since 1870 believe that the sturgeon can never become plentiful because of early day heavy fishing with set lines by Chinese, egg and fry raiding by carp and striped bass, and "bootlegging" by fishermen.

Fished Oub By Chinese.

Principal cause of the passing of the sturgeon—the "express locomotive" of all fish and scaling as high as 1,000 pounds—is the early day Chinese fishermen, it is said. The Chinese set lines seven miles in length which zigzagged from bank to bank and carried needle-sharp barbless hooks every two feet. The hooks were weighed as to hang one foot from the river bottom and would pierce a sturgeon feeding along the bottom or traveling upstream.

The Chinese dragged the fish from the river, removed the spinal column and sold the marrow at $1 a pound. The roe and flesh were thrown away.

The decline of the sturgeon was speeded, old-timers say, when carp and striped bass were introduced into California waters. The carp feed on the eggs in the spawning runs, and the young sturgeon hatching and escaping to the sea, are devoured by bass in the Carquinez straits.

Two Enemies Faced.

"Comparatively few young sturgeon survive the attacks of these two present-day enemies," the fish and game division reports. "If they do, and return to river waters as adults to spawn, they now must face another menace, those members of the commercial fishing group who persist in their shad and salmon trammel nets."

Handsome profits by "bootlegging" the sturgeon roe and flesh are realized. River patrol wardens estimate that from 25 to 30 adult sturgeon, averaging 200 pounds, are taken illegally each year in commercial nets.

A few mammoths survive, however. One delta fisherman reports a 1,400-pound sturgeon near the mouth of the San Joaquin river, and one estimated at 450 pounds spawning each year at a shallow spot in the delta near the confluence of the Sacramento and San Joaquin rivers.

THEATERS

MacDonald-Eddy Musical.

Robinson and Hugh Herbert.

"Brother Orchid," starring Edward G. Robinson as a gangster who goes gunning for culture, opens Saturday at the Madison. It is based on the Collier magazine story by Richard Connell, "Brother Orchid," and includes Ann Sothern in the cast. Humphrey Bogart and Ralph Bellamy have interesting roles in this satire on gangsters. The co-feature is "La Conga Nights," in which Constance Moore, Dennis O'Keefe and Arminda are starred. Hugh Herbert is the leading character in this musical farce.

Expose on Foreign Agents.

Action, drama, comedy and romance are blended into the theme of the timely picture "Passport to Alcatraz," which stars Jack Holt at the Majestic today and Saturday. It is a blasting expose of the false passport menace, which enables foreign agents to enter America and sabotage our munitions works. Holt is seen as a crack detective. The co-feature is "The Return of Wild Bill," which is a western with Bill Elliott in the lead.

"Danger on Wheels" showing at the Ritz today and Saturday is a story of the daredevils who risk their lives for fame and fortune in the world's most dangerous sport. Richard Arlen portrays a devil-may-care racing pilot while Andy Devine is his mechanic-pal. Peggy Moran appears romantically opposite Arlen. The second feature is "Green Hell," with Douglas Fairbanks, jr., and Joan Bennett.

All-Girl Orchestra on Stage.

Continuing today and Saturday is the stage show at the Park which features Mary Marshall and her all-girl orchestra in six variety acts. There will be three stage shows daily. The pictures to be seen at the some performances are "Little Orvie," starring the young actor, John Sheffield as the typical American boy, and the three mesquiteers, Robert Livingston, Raymond Hatton and Duncan Renaldo in "Pioneers of the West."

Unemployment Stabilized by Error in Law

SACRAMENTO, Cal. — (U.P.) — There was quite a laugh when the assembly committee on unemployment insurance looked up the law governing jobless benefits.

The original act of 1935 plainly said the purpose of the new law was to assist "in the stabilization of employment conditions."

It was found that the inadvertent error slipped in when the act was amended in 1937 and was copied into the 1939 law.

DARE BACKFIRES

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — (U.P.) — George Wells, owner of a night club here, complained to the chef after sampling the food being served at his place. "If you can do better, why don't you," the chef reported. Owner Wells now is Chef Wells and he says that dinner business has picked up.

SONJA HENIE AND SPORTSMAN HUSBAND HIDE ON HONEYMOON

CHICAGO —(U.P.)— Sonja Henie, the blonde Norwegian girl who put glamour on ice skates, and her new husband, Daniel Reid Topping, New York sportsman, disappeared on their honeymoon today under conflicting reports as to their whereabouts.

One spokesman for the couple said they had left by plane for New York. Another said they remained in Chicago overnight, and Miss Henie herself said they were planning a trip to California.

The couple—"just friends" for months—were married in a surprise Fourth of July ceremony here before a few friends in the apartment of Arthur Wirtz, manager of Miss Henie's skating shows.

It was the first marriage for the 27-year-old film star and the third for Topping, 28. He previously was married to and divorced from Theodora Boettger, New York socialite, and Arline Judge, another movie star.

WHEELER URGES PEACE POLICY

Warns Democrats Roosevelt Losing Strength Because of Foreign Attitude.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Declaring that President Roosevelt is rapidly losing political strength because of his foreign policy, Sen. Burton K. Wheeler (D) Mont., today warned the Democratic party that it must adopt a strong peace plank in its 1940 platform or face defeat.

Wheeler, back from a swing through the midwest, also declared that President Roosevelt's coalition cabinet "has done more to weaken the president than anything else he has done since he has been in office."

The Montana senator, who has threatened to bolt to a third party if the Democratic party becomes what he terms a war party, added:

"There has been a tremendous drift away from Mr. Roosevelt because of the sentiment that he is going to take us into war. That's been accentuated by his appointment of Mr. Knox and Mr. Stimson to his cabinet.

Summarizing the sentiments he found in addressing a number of peace groups, Wheeler explained:

"Unless the Democratic party adopts a strong peace plank and pledges its candidates not to send American boys across the waters to fight this or any other war unless an attack is made upon this country or the western hemisphere, the Democratic party will be defeated in the coming election."

PARTS SOUGHT

DETROIT — (U.P.) — Purchasing agents for the Detroit automobile factories have begun their annual shopping tour for the more than 3,000 parts which go to make an automobile. Before 1941 production starts, purchasing departments each will be visited by about 2,000 salesmen who offer everything from carpet tacks to giant steel presses.

SOUP DEFENDER

DOVER, Del. — (U.P.) — Knowles Harmon, local restaurateur, was fined $1 for defending his soup. According to Edward Carney, Harmon struck him as he was leaving the restaurant after expressing dissatisfaction with the soup. Harmon contended he thought the complaint was to avoid payment.

'Ping' Girl Weds Socialite Broker In Air Elopement

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Carole Landis, who surmounted the obstacle of being the "Ping Girl" to become a film star, returned to Hollywood today the bride of Willis Hunt jr., 28, Los Angeles broker.

They eloped yesterday and were married by Justice George E. Marshall at Las Vegas, Nev. The plane pilot and a deputy county clerk were the only witnesses.

It was the second marriage for both. She secured a divorce last year from Irving Wheeler, screen writer she married five years ago but with whom she said she lived less than a month.

Hunt, prominent in Los Angeles society, was divorced two months ago. His former wife is now Mrs. Hal Roach, jr.

ARTIST FIRED BY W.P.A. HEAD

Picture Called 'Communistic Propaganda.'

NEW YORK —(INS)— Artist Thomas Corwin of the WPA was off the government payroll today because the crosssed micrometer and calipers he sketched for a window display reminded Lieut. Col. Brehon Somervell the local administrator too much of the hammer and sickle of Soviet Russia.

Denouncing the sketch as "obvious Communist propaganda" Somervell fired not only Corwin but Robert U. Godsoe the project superintendent who approved the sketch.

BIGGEST CHAIR

GARDNER, Mass. — (U.P.) — This city, whose slogan is "The World Rests on Gardner, Mass., Chairs," is producing what is described as the biggest chair ever built.

The chair, a Cape Cod ladderback, will be 14 feet high, compared with the 12 feet 3 inches of the present "biggest chair in the world," which was constructed for the city's 150th anniversary in 1935 and which stands at Union Station. The new chair will be placed on East Broadway.

PLANE TAGS

OAKLAND, Cal. —(U.P.)— Aerial traffic is becoming so thick here that the Oakland Board of Port Commissioners has decided that airplane traffic violators hereafter will find a tag pasted on their windshields the same as motorists who violate traffic regulations.

Attendants and officials at the airport who have witnessed a violation will be authorized to pass out the tickets. Reasons for tagging include flying low, stunting illegally, illegal taxiing and flying without signals.

PAM—Faith! By A. W. Brewerton

SO PAM KNOWS!—AND SHE'S TAKING IT LIKE A SPARTAN! MIGHT HAVE KNOWN SHE WOULD, BLESS HER!—NEVER ANOTHER LIKE HER!—SO SWEET—SO BRAVE!
BUT SHE REFUSES TO MARRY ME!
T-5
POOR LITTLE BLIND GIRL—SHE'S NOT ABLE TO BATTLE THIS WORLD ALONE!
I WONDER—DOES SHE FEAR ITS THROUGH SOME-SENSE OF—DUTY—THAT I AM READY TO MARRY HER—CARE FOR HER—NOW SHE'S SO HELPLESS?!—HOW—HOW CAN I CONVINCE HER THAT I—I LOVE HER MORE THAN LIFE ITSELF?
OH, DAVID, DAVID!—IT WAS SO HARD TO GIVE YOU UP! BUT I MUST—I MUST!—YOU MAY THINK YOU CARE ENOUGH NOW BUT IN THE YEARS TO COME, WHAT A MILLSTONE AROUND YOUR NECK I'D BECOME, DAVID!—OH—I JUST COULDN'T BEAR IT!
AND THE LITTLE WIDOW STILL PRAYS!
—DO HUMBLY BESEECH THEE—
SUCH SUBLIME FAITH IS TRULY MARVELOUS TO BEHOLD, SO RARE IS IT IN THIS COLD, UNBELIEVING WORLD!

Warns Fishermen of Charles Mill Night Fishing Ban

Charles I. Kimmel, game protector for the state department of conservation and natural resources today threatened night fishermen at Charles Mill reservoir with arrest

Kimmel asserted flatly that he was through "warning" fishermen that the lake was open from 4 a. m. until 9 p. m. and that persons found fishing in the waters would be subject to prosecution

"There has been some misunderstanding among fishermen that the lake, open to boating and fishing, could be fished during the night," he said.

"It should be understood that the 4 a. m. to 9 p. m. rule applies to both boating and fishing and prohibits any bank fishing."

It was pointed out that the law restricting fishing applied only on the lake and that night fishing could be done in low the dam.

tween them and the Russians, it was their privilege to do so.

Civilian and military authorities, however, have not left their posts at Iassy, Galatz or Constanza he asserted.

Meanwhile, the nation moved closer to Germany, and 36 Britons were given until midnight tonight to get out of the Rumanian oil fields

Diplomatic circles believed that nervousness in eastern Rumania could be allayed only by favorable reports from a conference between Rumanian and soviet authorities at Odessa, Russia.

While representatives of the two countries conferred the Rumanian army stood its ground on the line of demarcation between Rumania and Russia and the Rumanian fleet remained "on the alert," it was stated

Information arriving here through military channels indicated Russia already was surveying the territory along the east bank of the Pruth river with a view to building a chain of fortifications.

BRITISH READY FOR NEW FIGHT TO KEEP SHIPS

France Severs Diplomatic Relations With Former Ally After Battle.

ping, while Nazi speedboats torpedoed two armed British steamers totalling 12,400 tons and German dive bombers were credited with sinking four 5,000-ton transports—a grand total of 117,400 tons.

A British air ministry communique said that five German submarines were attacked by British warplanes within five days last month and in each case oil patches were seen on the surface after the attacks — usually considered evidence that a submarine has been sunk.

Soviet Russia's aims in the European conflict meanwhile grew more obscure.

New columns of Red army troops and mechanized equipment were reported arriving in Bessarabia, the Rumanian province seized by Russia last week, thereby strengthening the belief that Stalin is planning further demands on the harassed little Balkan kingdom.

Considerable mystery still clings to the Soviet grab in the Balkans and the Baltic as well, with some observers interpreting them as moves to counter Germany's sweeping conquest of half Europe.

Britons found a comforting warmth in this theory, hoping that eventually Russia and Germany would come to grips.

But today the Moscow newspaper Pravda, the official Communist party organ, asserted that Soviet moves were directed "against plans of the British-French war mongers"—and not against Germany.

Following up yesterday's naval battle, the British fleet scoured the seas to bring French warships still at large under its control.

The London Daily Herald declared that in all nearly 250 French warships, "the greater part of what was the second biggest fleet in Europe," have fallen into British hands.

Besides capital ships numerous cruisers, destroyers, submarines, including the world's largest, and scores of auxiliary vessels were seized in actions started Wednesday.

An Italian source said that as a result of Britain's action both continental and colonial France henceforth will attack British vessels coming within the 12-mile coastal limits.

The Petain government of France was represented as ready to protest officially against the British action and to pronounce it a violation of international law.

French leaders in England, however, greeted the developments joyfully.

An account of the naval triumph —greeted with bitterness and indignation in Berlin and Rome—was given to commons by Prime Minister Churchill in a proud but tearful speech yesterday.

Churchill said he would "leave it to history" to decide whether any other course was open to Britain in her hour of peril.

The action, he declared, should set at rest permanently rumors that Britain has any thought of peace.

Raiders roved over sections of England during the night, but the government said damage was "very slight" and no casualties were reported.

A German bomber attempting after daylight to cross the English coast was driven out to sea and shot down in flames.

While Europe's attention centered on Britain's naval coup, Rumania lined up with the Rome-Berlin Axis through formation of a new nationalistic, pro-German, anti-Semitic government.

King Carol II, whose kingdom has been dismembered by the cession to Soviet Russia of Bessarabia and northern Bocuvina, yielded much of his power to the new premier, Ion Gigurtu.

The Rumanian move followed unconfirmed reports that further Russian demands had been made. Control of strategic frontier bridges along the Prut and Danube rivers forming the new Soviet-Rumanian border was reported among the demands.

Britain Tightens Up For Early Nazi Attack.

LONDON —(U.P.)— Britain tightened her defenses today against the imminence of German invasion.

The hour of a large-scale attack was believed drawing nearer after the first mass raid by Stuke dive-bombers was attempted yesterday on the important naval base at Portland.

Today the coastal defense area was broadened to include the entire east coast south of the wash in Lincolnshire and the south coast as far west as Portland.

New orders by the home office incorporated in the defense area the entire county of Sussex including Brighton, East Bourne and Bognor a larger part of Hampshire, including Portsmouth and Southampton, the Isle of Wight and part of Dorset.

Plans were announced for evacuation from east and northeast coast towns over the week-end of another 40,000 children.

The air ministry reported that a Dornier "flying pencil" was shot down off the coast in an attempted raid today and its crew captured. It reported that RAF planes had bombed and sunk five submarines during June.

Eleven persons were killed in the Stuka attack on Portland yesterday. Swift Messerschmith fighters also participated in yesterday's raids on Britain.

Petain Makes Break Official.

BERLIN —(INS)— The French government at Vichy, headed by Premier Marshal Henri Philippe Petain, officially notified Germany today that it has severed diplomatic relations with Great Britain.

Prior to the official notification the German official news agency DNB reported from Geneva that the Petain government had broken off relations with London as a result of the Anglo-French naval battle off Oran, Algeria.

Whirligig Spouts Fire, Dutch Windmill Sparks

30,000 CROWD FAIRGROUND TO WATCH FIREWORKS SPECTACLE

have given in the city. Besides the record Fairground crowd, thousands of persons watched the fireworks from other vantage points in the city.

The association attained its objective of a safe and sane Fourth too, for not a serious accident was reported during the afternoon and evening at the Fairground although officers said the traffic jam there was one of the worst they have ever handled.

Every available city and county officer and state highway patrolman was on duty to direct traffic. Virtually every foot of the Fairground was used for parking space and automobiles lined every street within blocks of the Fairground. It was nearly an hour after the show was over before all of the cars were out of the grounds.

A fireworks display that cost $1,250 delighted the huge throng and when the final big spectacle depicted a sham sea battle between two warships defending Old Glory a cheer went up from the crowd.

For nearly an hour, the aerial bombs and shells set up an almost continuous bombardment. Shells that appeared colorless enough when they were shot into the air suddenly burst into blue, red, green, and yellow star showers that brilliantly illuminated the entire countryside and brought exclamations from the spectators.

On the ground, big fountains spouted streams of fire, and whirligigs that seemed to go crazy after they started their gyrations whizzed in novel patterns all across the field. A big red rose flashed from one of the sets while the Senior high school band in the grandstand played "The Last Rose of Summer."

There was a set called 'Down on the Farm' that showed a farmer milking a cow while other farm animals stood nearby in the barn lot. There were Dutch windmills that looked realistic and the always popular "Niagara Falls" piece.

Before the fireworks last night, a show featuring Mansfield artists and patriotic organizations was presented on a big stage across the race track from the grandstand.

The program included a pageant by members of the McVey post, American Legion and its auxiliary and Boy Scouts; a comedy act by Rusty and Dusty, vocal solos by Mrs. Edith Fletcher Jameson, Don Kirkpatrick, and George Knackstedt; tap dance number by Martha Metcalf; accordion solos by Shirley Lay; whistling solos by Earl Snyder, the American Legion drum corps, and a duet by Dwight Hodgson and Mrs. Marge Davis.

The day's activities got under way at 2:30 p. m. with a daylight fireworks display. Mayor William J. Locke gave a greeting address.

The Madge Kinsey Players, appearing in Mansfield, presented a Musical Frolic, and the Boy Scouts, who were busy during the afternoon and evening, gave a program of their own. Also on the afternoon program were bicycle races, a penny hunt, a doll carriage parade, and an apple treasure hunt. Early in the evening the Friendly House presented a boxing show, featuring amateur fighters from Mansfield, Crestline, Loudonville, and other nearby towns.

The celebration was a financial success too, Park association officials said. Grand stand and chair seat tickets grossed more than $600 and concessions added more to the day's receipts.

The fireworks show last night was paid for by funds collected during the past winter by the Parks association which sponsored dances and other entertainments in the city.

GIVES REPORT ON ROOF DRAINS

connected to the sanitary sewers were carrying roof water.

The report showed that the normal sanitary sewer flow of 126,955 gallons per hour increased to 1,432,393 gallons per hour during a one inch rainfall.

During a four-inch rain the hourly flow jumped to 2,068,071 gallons an hour, surcharging into basements at the rate of 598,548 gallons during a 60 minute period, the figures disclosed.

Statler said the survey showed that conditions, responsible for the surcharge were the worst in the first, third and sixth sewer districts, comprising most of the west and southwest portions of the city.

In some sections, the report showed, overcharge into the sanitary sewers during storm periods increased as high as 382 per cent during a one inch rainfall.

During a four-inch rain some sections showed increases in excess of 500 per cent.

The survey revealed that a total roof area of more than 52 acres drained in the sanitary sewer system.

MANSFIELD HAS 'SANEST 4TH'

Not One Injury Reported From Accidents of Any Cause; Galion Boy Burned.

One was in Colorado and the other in Maine. Last year, 13 persons died in the nation as the result of fireworks accidents and 19 were blinded in one eye or both eyes.

Nine of Ohio's 11 fatalities were in traffic, but authorities pointed out that that number was unusually small considering the fact that the weather was ideal and highways were crowded with motorists.

Three members of a Cincinnati family were killed when their car skidded into the side of a moving D. T. and I. passenger train near Jackson.

A tree fell across a canoe occupied by four Canton youths at Portage lakes, south of Akron, killing Dick Myers, 20.

Donald C. Power, 40, executive secretary to Gov. John W. Bricker, suffered a fractured left leg when he was thrown from a horse near West Jefferson. The horse became frightened by a bon-fire.

Five players who holed out and tied for high honors in the flag event were John Dailey, jr., of Mansfield, and Robert Hoffman, Dr. F. H. Williams, Robert Cramer and Carl Stambaugh, all of Shelby.

Winners in the driving contest were Jack Tiffany whose combined distance for the three balls was 597 yards; George Reichert, jr., drove a distance of 594 yards with three balls; Harry May, who knocked a single ball 226 yards; and Robert Hoffman who placed second in the single ball event with a 226-yard hit.

Today women members of the club are meeting for their annual Ladies' Day activities at the club. Golf and a noon luncheon were scheduled.

Ousted Youth Congress Members Plan American Group

CALL ON GENE TUNNEY TO AID FIGHT ON REDS

Patriotic Bloc of Delegates Turns Against Alleged Communists.

(By International News Service)

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis. — Formation of a new "pro-American" organization of young people was begun today by a group of 40 youths who were refused seats as voting delegates at the sixth annual American Youth Congress, now in session at nearby Lake Geneva.

The "pro-Americans," charging that the AYC is dominated by Communists, declared they will organize " a genuine young people's group dedicated to the preservation of true American principles."

The rebelling youths telegraphed former Heavyweight Champion Gene Tunney, who has backed their anti-Communist stand, to come to Williams Bay and help them form a new organization. Their wire to Tunney stated:

"The American Youth Congress refused to seat the pro-American bloc of delegates. In these days of uncertainties, we cannot allow this group to pretend to represent American youth. We call upon you as an outstanding patriot to aid us in the formation of a truly American program for true American youths."

AYC spokesmen, meanwhile, assailed the so-called "pro-Americans" for what were termed their efforts to "disunite" the congress Jack MacMichaels, a young Southern Methodist preacher and chairman of the congress, declared in his keynote address that "the fight to disunite the youth congress has centered around the fight to force us to oust the minority of young Communists from our midst as an entering wedge to the complete disruption of the congress."

MacMichaels also denounced Chairman Martin Dies of the congressional committee investigating un-American activities, alleging that Dies himself is guilty of "un-American activities." The young keynoter, at the same time, vigorously attacked proposed universal military conscription for youth, saying:

"Though the people as a whole pay for war, youth bears the brunt of the cost. Youth makes the best cannon fodder in modern warfare. The first conscripts are in their late teens and early twenties. Youth asks another fate than that of fertilizing the battlefields of Europe."

It was announced 595 voting delegates were attending the Youth Congress, and that they represented "more than 5,000,000" young people in the nation. Almost half the delegates are under 20 years of age. The youngest delegate is 16.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Gene Tunney took a plane today for Chicago, on his way to Williams Bay, Wis., where he will confer with the "pro-American" group fighting the Communist bloc at the annual convention of the American Youth Congress.

Blind Residents of City Will Be Carnival Guests

Blind residents of Richland county will have an opportunity to hear all of the sounds of a carnival, even though they can't see the sights, when they are the guests of the Dodson Shows management today and tomorrow.

C. H. Varner, blind landscape contractor of Mansfield, has arranged with the carnival to permit all blind persons admittance to the shows and rides. Many of them have never ridden on a Ferris wheel or other "rides" typical of outdoor shows.

The Dodson Shows will close their week's engagement here tomorrow night. On the final day there will be a special children's party which will last from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m., with the grounds open to children and all rides and shows reduced to a nickel for them.

There will be special features for children and performers will play up to the youthful visitors. There will be a number of free attractions throughout the day.

The Dodson Shows came here sponsored by the Trades Council of the American Federation of Labor.

GARDNER HEARD WITH GOVERNOR

Legion Commander Speaks With Bricker in Celebration at Columbus.

R. B. Gardner, Mansfield, commander of the Ohio department of American Legion, and Governor John Bricker were the speakers last night at the Ohio State Fairgrounds in Columbus. They addressed an audience of several thousands.

Commander Gardner said that building loyal American citizens out of the youth of today was even more important than national defense, and that the Legion has combined a citizenship program for boys with its plea for national defense for the past 21 years.

He pointed out that it was the American Legion which first became alarmed at the growth of the subversive groups in America and took steps to combat it.

He paid tribute to Congressman Martin Dies, a World war veteran and whose investigation into the subversive activities was sponsored by the Legion. He said that Dies and his committee had worked under tremendous handicaps, often ridiculed and blocked by the highest officials in the land.

Gov. Bricker talked on "Citizenship" and also paid tribute to the American Legion as the organization which is the bulwark between the American way of living and the Fifth column.

After the two addresses there was a fireworks display during which pictures of Governor Bricker, Commander Gardner and Col. Robert Beightler, head of the state highway department, were lighted in fireworks dustrial concerns would survey what they can do, and place this information before the government, the whole production capacity of the country would be immediately available."

Robertson said his survey disclosed that Westinghouse could turn out shells, fuse timers, lighting equipment, radio apparatus and other materials. He also said the company would set up a centralized tool and die plant at Cleveland which would supply the necessary equipment for making these products.

He pointed out that even the simplest materials, such as gun mounts, would require at least four months to get production under way even after the order is placed. Other defense material would require 24 months for preparation of production equipment.

To date, most of the appropriations under the $5,000,000,000 defense bills have been for the navy, he pointed out.

The Westinghouse survey showed the company "particularly qualified" to manufacture these defense necessities, on which Robertson said "major projects" could be started as soon as facilities are provided in the following periods of time:

Manufacture of shells in large quantities (time required to get into production — six to 24 months, depending on quantity).

Production of fuse timers for shells (time required—12 to 15 months).

Manufacture of gun mounts and other gun necessities (time required—four to 24 months, depending on type and quantity).

Manufacture of special and standard lighting equipment, including the newly developed radio-controlled seadrome contact lights (time—some production at once).

Generators and motors for aircraft auxiliary power (time—eight to 12 months).

Radio equipment for use on land, at sea and in the air (time—six to eight months).

NAZIS PROMISE AID TO FRANCE

Retaliation for Attack on Fleet Thought Likely By Berlin.

the fight against England, either singly or in active co-operation with the Italian and German fleets

That was the picture as seen by qualified sources in Berlin as a result of the spectacular battle between British and French ships off Oran.

German afternoon newspapers splashed reports of the Franco-British diplomatic rupture and vociferously condemned the "Oran blood bath."

Wilhelmstrasse officials declared the French government chose the "only alternative courageously" when it severed relations with London.

These quarters also asserted that the German public is "indignant" over the latest turn of affairs.

Indications were that whatever war bitterness against France remained following the armistice is now rapidly being converted into sympathy for France.

German Press Blasts Churchill.

BERLIN —(U.P.)— The German press raged today against British Prime Minister Winston Churchill for ordering the attack on the French fleet. It warned Great Britain that it would have to answer "for the misdeeds of its premier."

Churchill, the press said in its denunciation is a "cur," "knave," "dog," "criminal."

Voelkischer Beobachter said the British had condemned themselves by applauding Churchill, referring to the cheers the Prime Minister received when he described the battle to the house of commons.

"England may plunge into the abyss with Churchill's chariot," the Hamburger Fremdenblatt warned. "It may forget the admonitions of its true statesmen who in the past openly admitted defeat and drew conclusions therefrom for the benefit of the empire.

"Another question is: Is the sense of fairness now dead in England? If England does not find a decisive answer, it will have to answer for the misdeeds of its premier."

DNB described the engagement as "one of the most treacherous actions which ever occurred in world history," while the authoritative Deutschen Dienst said that "Churchill appeared not only before us, but before the judgment of world history, as the greatest scoundrel who ever existed."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, JULY 5, 1940.

Congress is at least getting a little breathing spell between national conventions.

According to psychologists, Hitler has two personalities—neither of which is remindful of Dr. Jekyll.

The difference between a "petty politician" and an "outstanding statesman" is whether you're for or against him.

Explosion Reveals Danger

EXPLOSION of a bomb in the British pavilion at the New York world's fair yesterday gives an idea of this country's hidden dangers, which must soon be dealt with in a realistic way instead of the tolerant manner that has heretofore been in vogue.

While the killing of two policemen and serious injuries to several others may seem a minor incident as compared to the death of thousands in war-torn Europe, the fact remains that this country is at peace and that human life here is regarded as sacred.

The obvious intent of yesterday's bombing was to wreck the British building at the New York fair at a time when it was most likely to be filled with holiday crowds.

Such viciousness cannot be understood by Americans, although they may realize by now that it is a trait of some aliens in this country whose methods reflect the ruthlessness of their foreign masters.

While the percentage of such people in the United States may be relatively small, it is well to keep in mind that each of these, and the little groups in which they are associated, is capable of doing great damage and is a constant menace to life and property.

Just what is to be done to guard against such outrages has not yet been determined, but if Europe's war hatreds are to be thus brought into the United States it seems entirely reasonable that segregation or deportation of dangerous aliens cannot be safely delayed.

What About French Colonies?

A SURPRISE in Hitler's terms to France is that the conqueror doesn't demand the French colonies. The question naturally arises, whether he will include them in final peace terms or is satisfied to have them go to Italy and Japan.

The fact seems to be that Hitler himself isn't really much interested in colonies. That is, in colonial acquisitions for their own sake. He has spent nearly all his life in Central Europe and knows, at first hand, very little of the world. To him colonies may be little more than colored areas on the map, producing or capable of producing useful imports for the mother country. He himself never had anything to do with direct production of foodstuffs, minerals, timber, etc.

His own attitude seems characteristic of his people. The Germans had considerable colonies before the last war, in Africa, Asia and the South Seas; but very few Germans could ever be induced to live in them, and they brought little benefit to the Fatherland. Germans seemed to want colonies largely because England had them. They lacked then, and still lack, Britain's talent for colonial development.

Cleveland's Population Drop

JUST why Cleveland should be inclined to bemoan the fact that the 1940 census shows a population drop of 22,042 in the past ten years is not entirely clear.

Cleveland's greatest unhappiness in recent years has resulted from relief problems brought on by population in excess of employment opportunities and the city has been compelled to lean heavily on state and federal aid to provide for its needy citizens.

It is quite likely that Cleveland placed emphasis on population growth for so many years, first in an effort to pass Cincinnati in population and later to maintain its place as "Sixth City," that it is now unable to recognize the disadvantages of a growth beyond the possibility of being a self-sustaining unit of state government.

If the trend away from concentration of population in large cities has already been sufficient to restore a reasonable balance between urban and rural districts, Cleveland is to be congratulated on its small contribution to this end, rather than being entitled to sympathy.

Cities should aspire to no larger populations than they are able to care for without developing such abnormal relief problems as Cleveland has encountered within the past few years.

Sight-Seeing Forecast

THE bitter war into which Britain and Germany have fallen becomes not only more and more dangerous to Britain but more and more saddening to nations that have inherited the British language, law, culture and traditions. For most Americans, British history is a part of our own history.

There is now the possibility that Britain may be destroyed. And if such a calamity should come, it might come far more quickly than was ever imagined until these "blitzkrieg" days.

It is saddening to think that, unless this incredibly destructive war ends soon, some of us now living may realize the prophecy made by the historian Macaulay, of the time "when some traveler from New Zealand shall, in the midst of a vast solitude, take his stand on a broken arch of London Bridge to sketch the ruins of St. Paul's."

The Course of Empire

WITH one-fourth [illegible] and 180,000,000 people to defend, [illegible] is obliged to make Russia safer around the [illegible] Sea. He has himself to a piece of Poland, takes a slice [illegible], and then pushes down along the Baltic coast to [illegible] Estonia and Latvia and Lithuania. And now he is engaged [illegible] Bessarabia and Bucovina and some [illegible] Balkans, plus another Black Sea harbor or two [illegible] the mouth of the Danube River which is the [illegible] of Central Europe.

From there, Stalin [illegible] slowly on westward, taking a little more [illegible] that country as he goes. It was largely the example of Hitler [illegible] himself against the ramshackle democracies of western Europe, that encouraged Stalin to such "protective" measures.

Now Mussolini [illegible] "sacrificing his lot" [illegible] modern Rome [illegible] against all the little neighbors. And Japan is doing the same thing in eastern lands of [illegible] Asia, on a scale [illegible] the immensity of that continent.

Only the democratic New World is refusing its own business—or trying to.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—There is, I believe, the root of a sermon or an editorial in this scrap of conversation. . . . Carl Erbe and this reporter overheard it the other night at the Riviera bar. . . . It was between shows. . . . It was about 11 o'clock in the night. . . . four or five men, two of them, obviously of Spanish ancestry, were in a little cluster at one end of the bar, talking. . . .

"This is what I mean," one of them said, gesturing with his free hand to the crowd. "Look at those people. They are well dressed. They are happy. They drove out here in their own automobiles. The same is true not only in New York but in other section of this country. Your standard of living is so much higher than ours. Yet my country has many natural resources too. Why have you progressed so far beyond us?"

For a moment, for just one little moment there was one of those infinitesimal fractions of silence that sometimes can seem an eternity; then came the answer.

"Two or three hundred years ago," his companion replied, "the Spaniards landed on your shores, looking for gold. . . . About the same time a handful of Puritans landed on these shores, looking for God."

LATER in the evening Erbe and I went back to the cliff-side of the Riviera to renew our acquaintance with a family of raccoons that comes each year to be fed on the rocks by the river, when the Riviera opens. This night club, you will remember, is on the rim of the Palisades, overlooking the Hudson. There is a drop of a hundred feet or more to the water's edge, a rocky, densely shrubbed shoreline.

Each year a dozen or more raccoons miraculously appear to bask in the glow of the colored lights, accepting food from the hands of the guests. The waiters have them all named. They have been there for years, and each summer, when Ben Marden returns with this staff of waiters to the Riviera, the boys ascertain whether those raccoons are there even before their luggage is unpacked. . . . In the daytime you could search for hours and never find one . . . and if you did find one he would run away from you. . . . But when night comes and the lights wink on they lose their fear and come out of hiding, to enjoy the music and the free handouts. It is a phenomenon of nature that could only happen in the environs of a great metropolis.

CARL ERBE himself is one of those peculiar and often inexplicable parts that go to make up the world we call Broadway. . . . He used to be a hobo. . . . For awhile he was a guide in Yellowstone National park. . . . He has thirsted in the wide deserts of Mexico, and lingered at sidewalk cafe tables in what used to be Paris. . . . A couple of years ago he invited me to take the inland waterway route with him to the Florida keys. . . . He had a fine boat. . . . I couldn't make it, and he set out alone with his dog. . . . A couple of days out his boat suddenly sank, and he floated with his dog, a toy wirehair named Punchy, for what to him is still an eternity. . . . But he wasn't going to desert Punchy in an extremity like that. . . . Finally he was rescued. . . . And today, among his most prized possessions, is a medal given him in recognition of the fact that he risked his own life to save that of his dog.

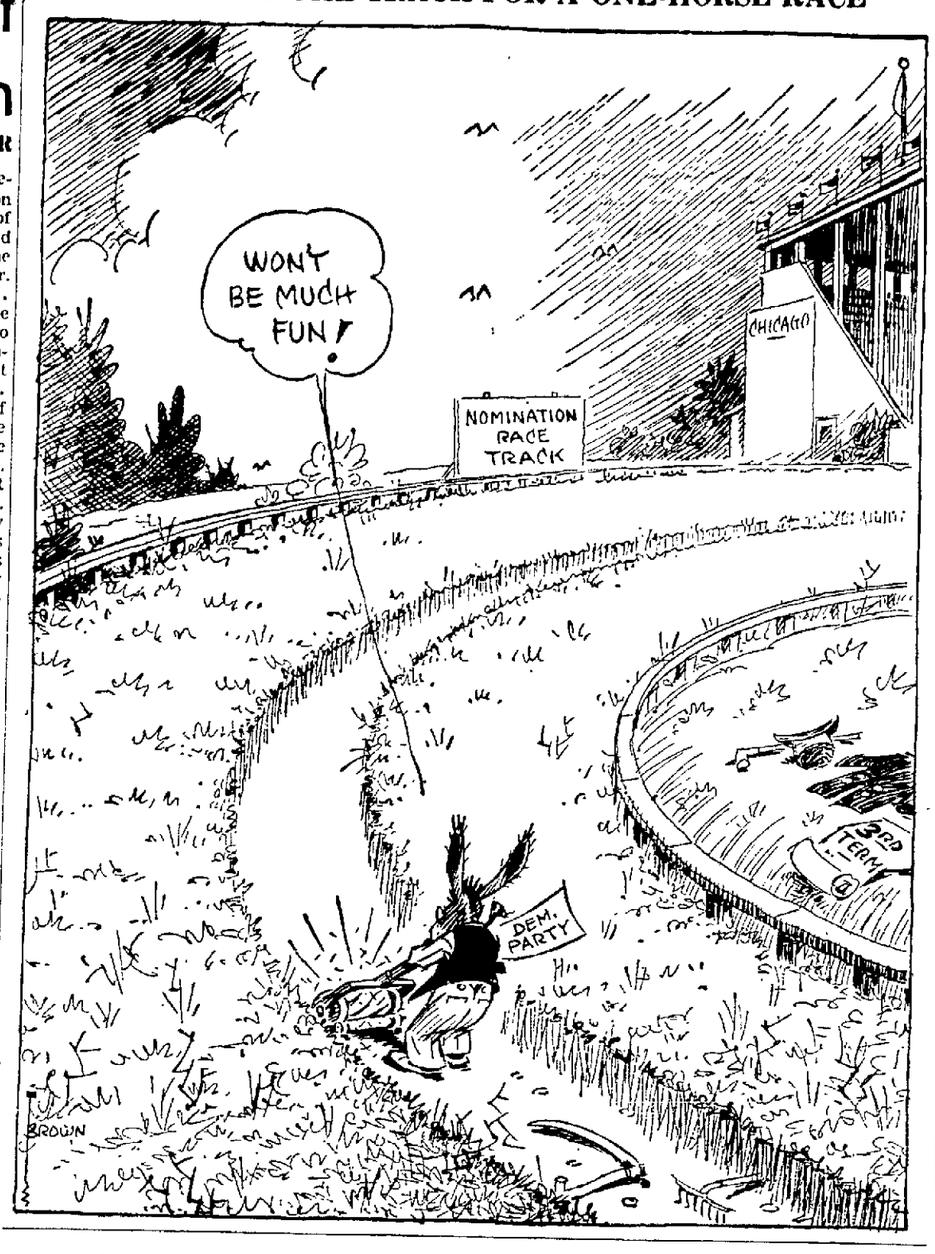
CLEARING THE TRACK FOR A ONE-HORSE RACE



With Canada as Seat of Empire

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Of all the "possible contingencies" that your government and mine is considering as a result of this war, none is more strange than that Canada may become the seat of the British empire.

No matter how remote you may consider it, the state department has been investigating it as a possibility for weeks . . . simply that no surprise may crop up in the coming months for which we will not be prepared.

What's more, in the foggy realm of possibilities, this isn't considered so terribly remote. The question is, of course, can Germany deal a blitzkrieg to the British Isles similar to those with which she has swept aside a half a dozen smaller nations and crushed France as though that supposedly great military power were no more than a papier mache Graustark? And if the Nazis can, will England carry on?

Winston Churchill has said that England will. There are other straws in the wind. Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and her family have been sent to Canada. More than 20,000 children, refugees from the danger zone of the British Isles are being sent to Canada.

In the state department here it already is considered a certainty that IF the capital of the British empire is established in the New World, it will be at Toronto (Ottawa is the capital of the Dominion, in case you have forgotten.) Toronto is a hedge-hop from Buffalo, N. Y.—an easy sail to the northern shore of Lake Ontario.

It's Tough Going.

NOW, off the record, here are a few of the things that your state department is discovering:

1—Canada cannot support a very large population. It's present 11,000,000 or so is strung out in a narrow band along the northern border of the United States, curving slightly upward at the ends. Since 1900, it has had immigrants numbering something like 6,500,000 — but so many of these and of those already there have found the going hard, that 5,000,000 Canadians hase sought a "fuller life" in the United States, during the same period.

2—Canadian industry exists only because of a high tariff wall. (This isn't true of all industries, but it applies to most of those which are competitive with industries in other nations.)

3—Canada is heavily dependent on American capital. There is, it is reported, some four billion dollars of American money invested in Canada, almost twice as much as is invested by the capitalists and investors of Great Britain.

4—Canadian fortunes and the very livilihood of the population depend upon world trade . . . particularly trade with the United States and the British Isles which take about 80 per cent of Canada's exports. (If trade with the latter were suspended because there no longer were any British Isles, Canada would lose almost half its export market.)

5—The Canadian public debt already is in the vicinity of $700 per capita (compared with approximately $450 per capita in this country, even when you take state and municipal debts into consideration.)

6—Canada's average annual wheat surplus is 260,000,000 bushels. What could be done with it?

It's Anybody's Guess.

THESE aren't half the problems regarding Canada that the state department, behind the scenes, is considering, but they serve to make the point that it's no matter of simple grade-school arithmetic.

If King George XI takes up residence on the uptown beach of Lake Ontario, it will be the first time (with a few trivial exceptions) that any monarch has ruled from the western hemisphere, but that isn't what's bothering the state department.

What's worrying them now, so that it might not worry you in the face of "any contingency," is what can the United States do if it should come to pass.

Your guess and mine is as good as theirs at the moment.

Listen, World!

Beware That 'Grouch' Column!

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WE MAY have been dumb in the past about Germany's Fifth Column but we're certainly making up for lost time now. Overnight we've gone Bloodhound, rolling a suspicious eye at any unidentified stranger, ready to bay him to his subversive lair. Which is fine and dandy, and the sooner we mop up these subsidized snoopers, the better for all of us.

But let's not kid ourselves that the Fifth Column is our main menace. It isn't. We have an outfit right here in the good, old U. S. A. which has it all over Herr Hitler's imported meanies when it comes to dispensing discouragement and general demoralization. Meaning what? Meaning that our own GROUCH COLUMN of chronic glooms is as poisonous to American morale as any invasion of enemy aliens could possibly be. And maybe more so!

No need to describe these lads and lasses; they're as ubiquitous and as obnoxious as the common wood tick, with an identical line of attack, i. e. constant belittling. According to them, nothing's ever right with the U. S. A., no where, no how. Particularly now. We have no adequate defense program, and we wouldn't know what to do with it if we had. Our trade is shot to hell and our national character even more so. Likewise our standing with the rest of the civilized world. In short, we're just a bunch of blabbing Big Mouths who couldn't withstand a blitzkrieg of custard pies, and it's high time someone came along and called our bluff.

All of which may contain several grains of truth. Far be it from me to protest our perfection . . . or deny that we need a swift kick on our collective shin. But it's one thing to admit our weaknesses and get busy doing a job on them . . . and quite another to make a steady racket of crepe hanging. And to my notion, the people who do the latter are as traitorous as the most vicious enemy aliens.

The foreign saboteur who drops emery dust into a ship's oil tank . . . the spy who steals government papers . . . the agitator who spreads hatred among our ignorant and unassimilated citizens—they are all a bad lot. But for downright devilry and long-range destructiveness they can't hold a candle to the GROUCH COLUMN "patriots" who go around undermining the faith and courage of their fellow Americans.

Why do they do it? For exactly the same reason that little Willie lies on the floor and chews the table leg when he can't get enough attention to satisfy his ego otherwise — they want to achieve publicity and a sense of power. Despite their wails, the GROUCH COLUMN has very little interest in America's record —past, present or future. But they are vitally interested in grabbing the spotlight for themselves and there is no surer way of doing it than by constant crabbing.

Constructive service is a slow and tedious business and rarely lands you on the front page. But destructive criticism will collect a crowd in nothing flat and make most of your erstwhile enthusiastic audience feel like drooling infants.

For fear lies coiled in the hearts of all of us . . . fear of the unseen . . . worse yet, fear of our own weakness and immaturity. It takes great tact and patience to lift a man above that fear and bring out the best in him. But any egotistical grouch can frighten us into the Screaming Meemies without half trying.

Remember that when next you meet a member of the GROUCH COLUMN. Don't be impressed by his seeming poise and insight. He's simply trying to build up his own value by selling you and his country short.

On Leaving One's Party.

"I didn't. The Democratic party left me."

The question and answer will be cited many times during the presidential campaign soon to begin.

Scores of thousands of Americans have changed party affiliations in the last few years. The old idea that one must go through life voting a set of inherited political convictions was long since repealed.

The nominee of the Philadelphia convention thus finds himself the counterpart of many of his fellows, some of them now Republicans and some of them Democrats, who feel it is not they who have left a party but it is the party which left them. Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Bridge of Laughter.

Your laughter is a bridge
On which you pause
To rest a moment while
You count the flaws

Of conversation, while
You gather new
And startling words the [illegible]
Of speaking to pursue.

High up above the flow
Of sound you stand.
At all times of the scene
And find command.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—If Hitler succeeds in his boast regarding the conquest of Great Britain, next move on the Nazi time-table is almost sure to be Russia. You can write it down as fairly certain that Hitler will invade the Soviet around September 1.

There is one big reason for this—food. Europe is sure to be famine-stricken this winter. The Polish wheat crop is bad; so are the Balkan crops. The French will not be able to reap much of a harvest. Denmark is already killing its cattle for lack of grain. Norway never was entirely self-supporting.

However, just across the Carpathians lies one of the richest granaries in the world—the Ukraine. Its wheat crop this year, although not the best, will be sufficient to keep down a lot of anti-Nazi unrest in a hungry Europe. Hitler not only needs it, but long ago announced in that infallible document, Mein Kampf, that he will take it.

Obviously Stalin knows this. That is why he has sent tremendous reinforcements into the Baltic states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania. That also is why he has edged his borders across Bessarabia up to the Carpathian mountains.

Ribbentrop Warning.

KEY to Hitler's Russian policy was contained in a cable received here in diplomatic code which told of the great numbers of Red troops crowding into Lithuania, and how the Lithuanian minister in Berlin reported this to Foreign Minister von Ribbentrop. He said, among other things, that Red troops from as far away as Siberia had entered Lithuania, and asked Ribbentrop's advice as to what his government should do.

"Don't do anything," Ribbentrop advised, according to the cabled report. "After we finish with Great Britain we'll take care of them."

Note—Actual strength of the Russian army along the Baltic, Polish and Rumanian borders is: sixteen infantry divisions, eleven tank divisions, and two cavalry divisions—a total of about 500,000 men.

British-Russian Deal?

AT PRESENT Sir Stafford Cripps is in Moscow as special British ambassador trying to work out a new deal between Russia and Britain. What will come out of his mission no one can predict.

However, two things seem certain. One is that only a flank attack by Russia on Germany's sphere of influence in the Balkans or upon Germany itself can spare the British Isles virtual annihilation from the air.

The other is that if the British Isles are conquered, it will be Stalin's turn next.

Keynoter Bankhead.

IT TOOK some sly jockeying to persuade Speaker Bill Bankhead to act as keynoter at the Democratic convention.

At first the dignified Alabama statesman balked at this role when the president offered it to him. Bankhead disclosed that he considered himself a serious vice presidential contender, which was news to insiders. He felt that by acting as keynoter he would give the impression that he knew he didn't have a chance.

Friends pointed out that as keynoter he would be in a strategic spot to push his prospects by making a hit with the convention. But Bankhead was unconvinced. Finally, diplomatic Jim Farley tried his hand.

"Sorry, Jim," said Bankhead, "but I've made up my mind and I'm not going to do it."

"Think it over for a few days," urged Farley. "I'll keep the matter open. I've got several others in mind who are anxious to make the speech because they think it will help their vice presidential hopes. But I'd rather have you."

Next day Bankhead phoned Farley. "Jim," he said, "I've changed my mind. I think you are right; I'll make the speech."

Who's Jesse Jones?

AT CABINET meeting last week, Secretary of Labor Perkins brought up a national defense project for which she felt some money should be raised. She asked the president to see the people involved.

The president replied that he thought the army was handling the matter and he didn't feel he should see Miss Perkins' friends. However, she continued to urge that federal funds be lent, and finally in order to end the conversation, Roosevelt replied: "You'd better see Jones."

But Miss Perkins continued to promote her cause until the president interrupted her again. "See Jones," he said.

"Who's Jones?" asked the secretary of labor.

The president did not say anything immediately, and all the other cabinet members around the table smiled. Noting their smiles, and frowning herself, Miss Perkins repeated the question: "Who's Jones?"

"Jones," replied the president, "is the gentleman on your left who is in charge of federal loans."

Amid the laughter which followed (in which Jesse Jones joined) the crimson-visaged secretary of labor implored her cabinet colleagues not to let her boner get outside of "school."

"Why, Frances," kidded Harry Hopkins, "you don't think for a minute you can hush that up inside the cabinet?"

Merry-Go-Round.

MISS MARGUERITE LEHAND, private secretary to the president, won $25 in bets that Willkie would be nominated. She gave the money to the Red Cross. . . . A shoestring peddler near the state department attracts customers by holding out his wares and crying, "Jim Farley is smarter than a hundred Hitlers." . . . SEC Commissioner Leon Henderson gets to work before most officials are awake. A congressman found him there at 7 one morning; he had been at his desk since 5. . . . With the $20,000,000 credit from the Export-Import bank, Argentina will buy a flock of U. S. buses for her new transportation system. . . . Gardeners are cutting out the "summer grass" with pen knives from the White House lawn. "Summer grass" is that foreigner to blue grass which creeps into almost every lawn in hot weather.

Snapping Turtles

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

DOWN along the stream this morning I heard heavy struggling in the water, close to the bank. As I looked through a screen of elder bushes I saw a portion of the body of a fish writhe above the surface of the water. I hurried closer and saw a scaly head with yellow eyes, holding the fish in its toothless jaws. It was a goodsized sunfish captured by a hungry snapping turtle.

He was not aware of me, for when I cautiously pushed the elders apart to get a better view, he walked slowly up along the slippery bank with his wriggling prize. He held the fish with ease. Here was something new to me. I never before saw a turtle devour a fish, but I knew from tales of anglers that they are guilty.

He wisely held his victim until it had almost ceased to squirm then he tore the piece of flesh he held between his jaws and gulped it down. He snapped some more along the dorsal fin and pecked and gulped with relish, like a buzzard. Only the bony head and tail remained as evidence of the tragedy.

Often I have seen ducks swimming quietly when all of a sudden one would give a scream of terror and with a flapping of wings would be pulled under the water by some unseen turtle. Even geese are attacked by the larger kind, and chickens feeding along a swamp may be caught by snapping jaws and killed.

Some years ago I heard a fine white hen yell as though caught by the legs and held. The sound came from a winding stream and I heard wings flopping the muddy bank. I hurried there and found a snapper 15 inches long holding firmly to the back of the hen's neck. I grabbed a stick and tried to hit him on the head. The first blow struck his shell and he jerked back but still held fast the chicken. I saw his hold was rather slight, so I grasped the hen by the legs and let him have a small piece of the chicken's neck. I never relished that part of the chicken anyway.

Snapping turtle's eggs are quite delicious and are easily found along sunny, open banks, at varying depths. I have pulled out 30 white soft leathery eggs in a single nest. The eggs of blacksnakes are similar but are not so well secluded. They lay upon the surface of the ground.

SHIP GOES IN BITS BY RAIL TO SAVE TIME

Sidewheeler Pieced Together Jig-Saw Fashion to Take Place of Veteran.

LACONIA, N. H.—(U.P.)—With a 67-year-old record and early summer business at stake, shipwrights are working against time to assemble a steamship jigsaw puzzle—the Lake Champlain sidewheeler Chateaugay.

The Chateaugay was hacked into sections on Lake Champlain's shore and transported 200 miles overland to Lake Winnipesaukee as a replacement of the famed Mount Washington, a wooden excursion steamer that burned last December after 67 years service.

Her skipper, 70-year-old Captain Leander Lavallee, conceived the "crazy scheme" of buying the Chauteaugay and bringing the ship across the Green and White Mountains from Lake Champlain where she had sailed 52 years.

Lavallee wanted an excursion boat by July 1 so he could start the summer service on schedule. He never had missed a trip since the Mount Washington sailed out into the broad New Hampshire lake in 1872.

No Time For Building.

After the fire that burned his vessel to the waterline, Captain Lavallee planned a new, streamlined ship to sail under his colors. But contractors were unable to promise that a new vessel would be ready in time for the July sailing.

So Lavallee scouted the nation's larger inland waterways and finally purchased the Chateaugay for $20,000.

Although it was mid-winter when the deal was completed, Captain Lavallee assebled a crew of steel workers and ordered them to begin moving his new vessel.

The Chateaugay was at anchor in ice-locked Lake Champlain when purchased, so workmen were forced to dynamite a channel to the shore.

It was April before the old hulk was hauled up a runway to a shore berth where the real work began. Captain Lavallee and his assistants worked feverishly, dismantling the superstructure and loading all movable parts on railroad flat cars to be brought to Laconia.

Cut In 10-Foot Sections.

Then workmen with acetylene torches ripped into the 205-foot metal hull, cutting it into 10-foot sections. In all, 250 tons of wood and metal parts were shipped by rail through the wooded mountains of Vermont and New Hampshire.

Once at their destination—Lake Paugus, a bay of Winnipesaukee—the parts were strewn across the ground while more workers began welding them together.

Already the hull begins to look like a ship again and within a few weeks she will be launched as the Mount Washington II.

"I know we'll have her ready by July 1," Captain Lavallee said. "She'll be strong as a new boat, and by the way, she'll be the first iron steamship to sail on New Hampshire inland waters."

MOTHER-IN-LAW ATTACK FAILS

BORDENTOWN, N. J.—(INS)—Walter B. Jones, of Crosswicks, had a novel scheme, police said, for getting even with his mother-in-law.

Driving on a Bordentown highway, Jones spied his in-law riding in the opposite direction and made a U-turn to draw abreast of her car.

The "sight of her" made him so angry, police quoted Jones, that he twice tried to force her from the road.

The angry son-in-law paid a $5 fine and had his license revoked for two months.

TUITION ALIMONY

ALAMEDA, Cal.—(U.P.)—Something new in alimony annals was recorded here when a divorce was granted Joseph Thomson, 27, who last year married Glenda Thomson, 16-year-old high school student. Besides $15 a month alimony for the next 18 months, Thomson also agreed to pay her tuition fee of $26.50 a semester at the University of California in the event she decides to complete her education.

Here's Real Bit of Sentiment

Sure and there's a real bit of Irish sentiment in the heart o' Eddie Madigan, shown left above with his wife. He calls his wife "Kit" and the bouquet of flowers is not standing beside her by accident. There has been a fresh bouquet of flowers for Mrs. Madigan from her husband every week—almost every day, in fact—since the couple were married over 35 years ago. The Madigans are in Mansfield this week operating the commissary tent at the Dodson's World's Fair shows. They have been connected with the show business throughout their married life.

CLUB DISPLAYS BOOK PLATES

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Three hundred book plates, valued at more than $1,000,000, have been placed on exhibit at the Print club.

Contributed by 10 sponsors, the pieces range in size from the commonplace nameplate to the elaborate family coat-of-arms.

Probably the most valuable plate in the exhibition is one made by Paul Revere for Epes Sargent, a New Englander. Revere made only four plates, of which Sargent's was one.

SHELTER BELT ANCHORS SOIL FOR MIDWEST

Project Director Asserts Value of Trees Proven For Agriculture.

MANHATTAN Kas —(U P)— Effective shelter belts the result of the planting of trees in the Middle West in the hope they would aid crop conditions and perhaps stop soil blowing, stretch along 2 500 miles of farms today.

Under the direction of the forest service of the Department of Agriculture, millions of trees have been planted annually for several years and today the first completed projects are of sufficient growth to give effective protection from the hot winds that blow from the Southwest through the summer

Russell Reitz, state director of the shelter belt projects, says that virtually all opposition to the belts has disappeared.

"There were plenty of scoffers when we first started setting out the trees" Reitz recalled "People said they wouldn't grow and that the program was foolish Some of the trees didn't grow, but most of them did and now their worth is being proved"

Reitz said the oldest trees now are about 35 feet high They are set 10 rows wide and tests have shown that crops planted in the lee of the belt make a better growth and survive the hot blasting winds more easily

This spring alone Reitz's men put out approximately 7,000,000 seedlings on 1,000 farms The work gave 800 men employment through the planting season The trees are placed on farms without cost to the property owner, but once they are in place their care is the problem of the landowner.

In Kansas the trees are planted running east and west because the prevailing summer winds are from the southwest The effectiveness of the barrier of shrubs and trees depends both on its height and density, Reitz said The wind, sweeping both through and over the barrier loses as much as 70 per cent of its force for a distance seven times the height of the trees and the original velocity is not regained for a distance equal to 50 times the trees height

A great variety of trees are used in the belts Reitz said Chinese elms cottonwood hackberry American elm, honey locust, black locust, mulberry, osage orange hedge, Russian olive, red cedar yellow pine American plum and chokeberry had proved the best adapted for the area .

PROTECT SHIPS BY ELECTRICITY

Navy Appropriates 5 Millions For 'Cables' to Combat Magnetic Mines.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—To keep compass needles from destroying U S. warships the sum of $5,629,500 has been appropriated by the navy for protection against magnetic mines

The secret of a magnetic mine is an ordinary compass needle, fixed inside the mine The needle's swing touches off the explosive

How this fatal swing may be caused is shown clearly in six U S patents for magnetic mines. The details vary, but the principle is the same in all. It is interference with the earth's terrestrial magnetism, the force which guides a compass needle

The reason the ships interfere with the earth s magnetism is that every steel vessel is a permanent magnet It takes on this magnetism during construction The position of its two poles depends on the direction in which the ship points while being built and on whether it was built in the northern or southern hemisphere The poles in the northern hemisphere are opposite from those in the southern

To protect ships it is only necessary to get rid of their magnetism that is to produce what scientists call a zero magnetic field The demagnetization is called degaussing.

This is done by stringing a girdle of electric cables horizontally around a ship Precisely how the current is operated is still an official secret

SQUARE DANCE GROWS POPULAR

OTIS, Mass —(U P)—The jitterbugs have turned to square dancing for more vigorous amusement, according to Sammy Spring, singing, fiddling dance prompter

"There's no question about it, square dancing is coming back," he reports after a half-century spent playing for dances. "Make no mistake, square dancing is not for those who want to spend a nice quiet evening—it's strenuous fun."

White-haired and leather-lunged Spring believes he travels 1 000 miles weekly going from one country dance to another

PERISCOPE

BATAVIA N Y —(U P)— Residents gaze pop-eyed when Charles D. Thomas of Batavia rides about in his red-hued modernistic "automobile of tomorrow"

The 30-year-old mechanic says his self-designed car is at least 10 years in advance of the times It is streamlined even on the underside of the body has a periscope for rear vision air-conditioning and other features He believes, however, that the design is too revolutionary to be placed on a mass production basis

THE COMING WEEK will be a busy one, indeed, for Violet Richardson, as she is being married to Ernest Siefkin of Burbank Cal., on July 12. . . . Violet, you know, was Girl Reserve secretary at the Y. W. C. A. here until early June, when she returned to her parents' home in Boston, Mass. Her brother, Rev. Russell Richardson, will perform the quiet ceremony in Reading, Mass., and a reception will follow at the Kirkshire Inn. . . . Mr. Siefkin and his bride will then go to Burbank to make their home.

Speaking of California, Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Peppard recently returned from there, where they attended the graduation exercises of their son, Bill, from Stanford university . . . While in the sunshine state they also visited with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilmore, and their family—former residents who now live in San Mateo . . . Bill returned to Mansfield with his parents and then went on to Erie, Pa., where he will be employed by the General Electric company . . . En route east on business, Mr. Wilmore stopped off here for a brief visit with his mother, Mrs. Frank Wilmore.

Some other former residents who live in California now are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Harding. . . . They came here last month from Westwood Village, Cal., to visit with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Harding and Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Sheets. . . . You probably recall that Mrs. Harding was Isabel Sheets before her marriage. . . . Mr. Harding has returned to his home in the Los Angeles suburb, and his wife will join him there sometime next month.

NEXT TIME you go calling on Mr. and Mrs. Gordon M. Watson, you'll have to change your route from West Dickson avenue to 233 Walter avenue, as they spent their holiday yesterday moving into a new home there. . . . And incidentally, the most excited member of the family is the Watsons' little daughter, Judith Ann.

Be sure to pay special attention to Mary Ellen Spreisterbach's left hand when you see her again, because she's wearing a beautiful new diamond ring on that all-important finger. . . . She received it from Charles Biddle.

Been sleeping with a piece of wedding cake 'neath my pillow this week—it was given to me by Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Sullens, and it was taken from the wedding cake at the reception which followed the marriage of their niece, Dorothy Burridge, and A. Pealrs Hasse. . . . The Sullens went to Twinsburg for the ceremony, which was solemnized at the Congregational church there. . . . Dorothy and her husband (who have visited here quite frequently) are taking a motor trip through Maine now and will reside in Cleveland upon their return. . . . She was graduated from library school at Western Reserve university last month, and he is a salesman with an enameling company in Cleveland.

THIS WEEK will be one long remembered by nine members of the newly organized assembly of Rainbow Girls here, as they went to Columbus to attend the Grand Assembly of the organization. . . . Virginia Casperson (worthy advisor), Marian Reese (associate worthy advisor), Margaret Whitten, Dorothy Mayberry, Virginia Davis, Carol Ann Keefe, Janice Carter Helen Damlos and Mercile Schaaf went down—accompanied by Mrs. William Keefe and Mrs. Virgil Hartman. . . . Special functions, including a banquet were held at the Deshler-Wallick hotel ball room, with the exemplification of the grand cross of color degree and a formal dance at the Memorial hall . . . The Rainbow girls were escorted to the latter affair by DeMolay members. . . . A welcome announcement made at the assembly was that the Supreme and Grand Assemblies will be held jointly next summer for six days in Cleveland this being the first time for the Supreme Assembly to meet in Ohio.

Unusual Bread Pudding

By BETSY NEWMAN

In the summer, bread must be eaten quickly so that it won't go moldy, as it has a bad habit of doing if the weather is hot and muggy. A bread pudding is the answer if the bread supply seems to be too much for the family appetites. The pudding recipe included today is unusual.

Today's Menu.

Spiced Baked Sliced Ham
Baked Potatoes
Orange Avocado Salad
Green Beans
Regal Bread Pudding Tea

Spiced Baked Sliced Ham

Slice ham cut 1½ to 2 pounds — 25 whole cloves

Sauce

½ cup vinegar
½ cup water
2 tsps. dry mustard
¾ cup brown sugar

Stick cloves into ham and sprinkle with ½ of sugar in baking dish. Pour over it sauce made as follows: Mix rest of sugar with mustard, vinegar and water, boil for a few minutes, pour over ham, and bake until done, at least 1 hour.

Orange Avocado Salad.

Allow ½ avocado to each person to be served. Cut avocados in half, remove stones, but do not peel, fill with orange section. Serve on lettuce with French dressing.

Install Officers of Past Chiefs at Evening Session

Officers of the Past Chiefs association of the Pocahontas lodge were elected and installed Wednesday evening at the meeting which was held at the home of Mrs. Effie Keltner, Wayne street. There were 29 present. Mrs. Elizabeth Konves will serve as Pocahontas.

The other officers are Mrs. Mary Altaffer, prophetess; Mrs. Nellie Phipps, Winonah; Mrs. Ida Crookton, Powhattan; Mrs. Ollie Eppley, guard; Mrs. Frances Wolf, scout, and Mrs. Mary Hill, correspondent.

Miss Callie Mengert and Mrs. Mary Smith were the associate hostesses. Five hundred and bunco were the diversions of the evening. Mrs. Martha Reichert and Mrs. Lulu Ameter were the winners. Luncheon was served by the hostesses at the close of play. Mrs. Ethel Ferrell and Mrs. Thelma Hodson, guests, were also presented with prizes.

The next meeting will be a covered-dish supper at 6.30 p. m. at the North Lake park, Aug. 7.

Younger Set Attends Pre-Holiday Function

Young Jerry Alan Hecker, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hecker, 181 Bartley avenue, entertained Wednesday afternoon with a pre-holiday party for a group of neighborhood friends. Contests and games were played and prizes won by Jimmy and Janice Krunkleton and Jimmy Knapp. Each child was presented with a favor.

An animal motif was predominate in the decorations when refreshments were served by Mrs. Hecker, assisted by Mrs. Basil W. Knapp and Marceille Pluck. Other children at the party were George Kopcial, Ward Fate, Mary Knapp and John Pasteur.

TWO ENGAGEMENTS ANNOUNCED TODAY

Miss Virginia Rimmer, Jennings F. Heiser Will Wed In Fall; Miss Stella Disanze to Be Bride of Joseph Quinn Aug. 1.

AUTUMNAL weddings will make many a bright spot in the social calendar this fall from early indications. Already a number of nuptial events have been planned, and just today we have had word of another engagement. Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Rimmer of 53 Lexington avenue are announcing the betrothal of their daughter, Virginia, to Jennings F. Heiser, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Jennings F. Heiser, sr., 149 East Second street.

No definite plans for the wedding have been made, but it will be an event of late fall. Miss Rimmer is a graduate of the Mt. Gilead high school, and is employed at the J. C. Penney company, while Mr. Heiser was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school, and is employed in the offices of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company.

Another approaching marriage is that of Miss Stella Disanze, 554 South Main street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dominic Dizanze. She will become the bride of Donald A. Quinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quinn, Salem, Aug. 1 at St. Peter's Catholic church.

The bride-elect attended Mansfield, Senior high school, while Mr. Quinn attended Salem high school. He is employed at the Bliss company at Salem. A number of pre-nuptial parties are being planned for Miss Disanze during the current month.

Other weddings which will create interest here start with the marriage this week-end of Miss Jean Sutter, Galion, to Merle Stevens, 342 East Fourth street. The ceremony will be performed in the living room of the couple's new home on Blanche street at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow.

Another romance to culminate in marriage this month will be that of Miss Dorothy Yauger and James M. Pollatty, Columbia, S. C. The couple will be married at the Methodist church at Thompson, Ga., on July 20. Miss Yauger, who formerly resided here, has now joined her parents in the southern community where she is making preparations for her wedding.

On July 21 Miss Kathryn Pfaff and William Todd will exchange their vows at the home of the bridegroom's uncle, Coleman Todd, Park avenue west. The ceremony will be read at 3:30 p. m.

The nuptial parade will be resumed on Aug. 17 when Miss Marjorie Jean Logan and John L. Lannan exchange their vows at the St. Peter's Catholic parsonage. Another wedding of next month will be that o Miss Anna Nanich and Paul Dick Etzwiler. The closed church ceremony will be performed at St. Mark's Lutheran church on Aug. 24.

October will be marked by two weddings, as Miss June Crouse and Fred Holl have announced their intention to wed early that month, while Miss Inga Wolf has told her friends that she will be the bride of Edwin Leech on Oct. 12.

Dancer Entertains At Golden Link Club

Mrs. James Mitten was a guest at the meeting of the Golden Link club Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Clementine Myers, 671 Scholl road. After the business meeting Donna Jenne Beech, accompanied by Mrs. William Bender, presented several tap numbers.

Cards were played during the afternoon, and Mrs. S. E. Balliett won the prize. Luncheon was served at small tables decorated with garden flowers. The next meeting will be held Aug. 7 with Mrs. Cathryn Giffen, 95 South Diamond street.

Maternal Health Improves

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

WE IN America are making progress in the care of expectant mothers. In many communities there are free public clinics and dispensaries which make available to all expectant mothers of these communities the best medical care.

Some Pioneers.

The City of Cleveland, for example, has pioneered in excellent services to expectant mothers. The Child Health Association there, under the able direction of Dr. Richard A. Bolt, in co-operation with the local Medical Asssociation, has for a number of years carried on a program in prenatal care which has become the pattern for many other cities.

This Child Health Association conducts classes in prenatal care for expectant mothers. At the present time, this program, with 118 classes per month, reaches about 5,000 expectant mothers a year, which is about one-third of all mothers confined in Cleveland. Nine lectures per series are given in these classes. Free lesson outlines are distributed to each class member and bound copies are being sold at 25 cents the copy. Recently, classes for expectant fathers also have been established.

Lower Mortality Rate.

Statistics show a decidedly lower mortality not only among the mothers but also among the infants born following this prenatal care. They also show that each added 500 women reached by the instruction program resulted in the saving of at least another life. The Cleveland maternal mortality rate has been reduced from 7.2 per thousand live births in 1931 to 3.1 in 1938, and this reduction has undoubtedly been effected, in a great measure, by the educational program of the Child Health Association.

For the entire nation, the rate for the first half of 1939 is 4 deaths of mothers for every 1000 live babies born, a drop of 23% since 1937. And, whereas, 15 years ago, 74 out of every 1000 babies born alive were doomed to die before a year of age, the rate has fallen to 50. Too bad they have such a warring world to come to!

"The Expectant Parent" is a free government pamphlet to be had by writing to the Children's Bureau, Department of Labor, Washington, D. C. I shall be glad to send any one who will write me at 235 East 45th Street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it, a list of books and pamphlets for expectant parents.

Solving Parent Problems.

B. Do you believe in whipping children over five or six?

A. No, I don't, except in very rare instances.

Q. "I have a baby. Also an invalid mother who expects me to listen to the details of how she is feeling, and between desperation over the baby and a nervousness at trying to listen to her and do up the many jobs, I could often scream, if I'd let myself."

A. Often an invalid mother or father is harder to manage than a child. Principles of good management are similar. Make clear to the mother that after you have done the best you can for her you don't have time to listen to the details of how she feels. Then walk away and go about your business with good conscience.

Q. Would you let children run and romp indoors?

A. No; unless there were a play room for such purpose. Let the child learn very early that games of chase must be played out of doors—for safety and citizenship.

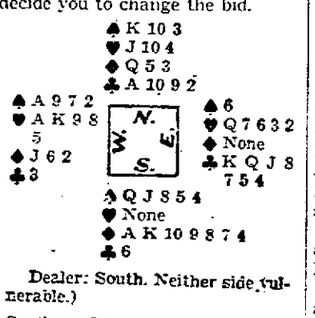
IMAGINE HOW IT PLAYS

At any doubtful stage of the bidding, it will pay you to pause for thought and carefully count out the various suit lengths around the table, as far as they have been indicated, also the location of particular honor cards of importance. Having done that, so far as possibilities can guide you, try to figure out what you expect will be the opening lead against the last bid made. Then try to follow the ensuing play from there on, in your imagination, as far as you can. That may decide you to change the bid.



Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	1 ♥	2 ♣	3 ♥
3 ♠	4 ♥	Pass	5 ♦
5 ♠	Dbl	Rdbl

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South ruffed the first heart, led a spade to the A and ruffed the next heart. This had him down to two trumps in each hand. West holding three. After three diamonds, he made West ruff, but another heart took South's fourth trump. He led to the club A, ruffed a club, but later had to lose some more clubs and was badly punished. Of course he could have saved something by letting West have three hearts, then ruffing in dummy.

North should have saved the bacon. The spade rebid showed exactly five and the previous diamond bid therefore more, either six or seven. Hence South had only one or two side cards, probably in clubs. North should have foreseen South getting ruffed in hearts, then West, who had doubled, winning the spade A and leading another heart for a ruff. He could have read that 6-Diamonds would be practically airtight, unless East had one diamond, and then could be set only one by a lead of the A and another spade.

If North had made the correct takeout bid of 6-Diamonds over the double, would East have bid 6-Hearts, which could be made? He said he wouldn't, but that West should have. Maybe he should have, at that, especially after East's cue-bid of the opponent's diamonds.

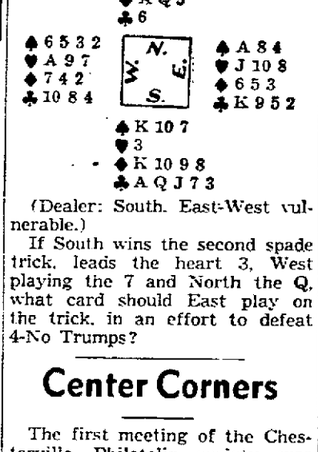
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

If South wins the second spade trick, leads the heart 3, West playing the 7 and North the Q, what card should East play on the trick, in an effort to defeat 4-No Trumps?

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I'll tell you in capitals where you go from here," he said. "You go ahead of us down this road and then turn toward Southampton on the next road and keep on until we signal you to stop. Nobody's going to hurt you, if you behave, and when we get through with this party we'll telephone, and you can go on your way. We're not trying to snoop on you or find out where your headquarters are — keep your little secrets to yourself, but we are going to put you two with some friends of ours who will see that you don't get back here till after we give the word. Then you'll be as free as the air."

"No you don't!" a raucous voice answered him. "We don't go nowhere in charge of nobody."

"Suit yourself!" my father's man said again. "This party was your idea in the first place, I believe. We don't care whether we born in on it or not. But I warn you, my patience is getting a mite worn around the edges. Either you start on ahead on my terms, or we leave right now, collect our young couple and tote 'em home again."

Was it possible, I asked myself excitedly, that the leader of Leslie's gang was receiving signals from the men in the roadster? If so—then—the gang leader stooped once more to the man watching the opposite side of the road, listened to something he said, and then straightened himself.

"Listen you, Hank!" he called to the owner of the raucous voice who had objected to the dictum of my father's man. "You're not running this party, see? You two go along with these Sunday School boys. We're sure they'll treat you right. If you see they're starting any funny business with you, why you sure know what to do, don't you?"

"Remember! They're not to be frisked. If you try anything like that, it will be just too bad for you."

"Nobody's going to touch them unless they try to leave before we give them the word," my father's man said, then the gangster said explosively:

"Okay! Get going, Hank! We've got to get through with this business sometime today."

Then, I think, we forgot to breathe as into the road from the wood path stepped the pseudo army officer.

"Keep a sharp look-out!" he commanded in a voice no longer muffled and which we recognized. "I'm going to get a box seat for this show."

Then Jack Leslie began to walk toward our hiding place.

Chili Good At Home or On Picnic

By BETSY NEWMAN

Chili con carne makes a very tasty dish to eat at home or to take on a picnic. Make it at home, of course, and either take it out hot from the stove or warm it up over the picnic fire. The salad, too, may be served at a picnic dinner.

Today's Menu.

Chili Con Carne Creole Salad
Boiled Potatoes or Boiled Rice
Strawberry Betty Coffee

Chili Con Carne.

1 lb. ground beef
1 onion, sliced thin
3 tbsp. bacon fat
1½ cups chili sauce
½ cup water
1 can kidney beans
1 tsp. chili powder
1 tbsp. flour
Salt and pepper to taste

Part beef and part pork may be used if preferred. Brown meat and onion in bacon fat, add chili sauce (you may substitute 1 can tomato soup if you prefer), water and beans; cover and cook over low heat for 20 minutes. Add chili powder and flour moistened to a smooth paste with a small amount of water. Stir into meat and vegetable mixture well, add 1 teaspoon salt and pepper to suit taste, cover and continue cooking slowly on top of stove or in moderate oven (350 degrees F.), 30 or 40 minutes longer. The long, slow cooking develops flavor, so do not hurry it.

Creole Salad.

1 pkg. aspic gelatin
1 cup boiling water
1 cup tomato juice
2 slices chopped pimento
1 green pepper, chopped
1 cup diced celery
1 cup chopped cabbage
Juice ½ lemon

Dissolve gelatin in boiling water, add tomato juice and chopped vegetables and lemon juice. Chill in molds or cut in squares when firm, and serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

Strawberry Betty.

1 qt. fresh berries
1 cup powdered sugar
1½ cups flour
½ tsp. salt
2 tsp. baking powder
1 tbsp. sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
3 tbsp. melted fat
½ cup sweet milk

Cut berries in half, mix with powdered sugar. Sift other dry ingredients. Mix fat, eggs and milk and add to dry ingredients. Put in greased pudding dish with layer of batter, then a layer of strawberries and repeat until all are used. Put in covered steamer over kettle of hot water and steam for about 45 minutes.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, July 6.

MUCH excitement and commotion of a sudden and drastic nature may be expected on this day judging by certain revolutionary aspects among inciting planetary forces. The strange, deep-rooted as well as the subtle and intriguing may materialize and to the definite progress and far-reaching benefit if properly manipulated.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year that may challenge all the strain, excitement and surprise of sudden and possibly unprecedented predicaments. Shrewd, keen and even ruthless response may be required decisively and profitably to cope with strange events.

A child born on this day may have a nature of many conflicting traits. While open and above board, aggressive and impetuous, yet it may possess deep wells of subtlety, shrewdness and craft.

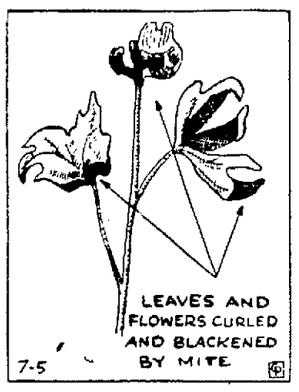
Garden Graph

By DEAN HALLIDAY



Delphinium "Blacks."

Gardeners when speaking of delphiniums ofter refer to the "blacks." They are not referring to those which produce black flowers, but to the disastrous results produced by an insect so small it can hardly be seen with the naked eye. This insect is the Cyclamen Mite, and when it decides to visit delphinium plants it leaves a trail of trouble behind it.

The mites cause delphinium leaves to blister, curl and blacken as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. They also cause the buds to become misshapen and if they do succeed in opening, the flowers produced are deformed.

The minute any of the above symptoms are noticed on delphiniums the plants should be cut off close to the ground and burned. The new growth which the roots will send forth will be perfectly healthy but it will be well, as a protective measure, to spray the new plants with a combination fungicide and insecticide to guard against a reappearance of the mite.

CLAIM THEY CAN GAUGE SUCCESS OF MARRIAGES

Scientists Declare Tests Will Show Chances of Marital Bliss for Couples.

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO—"Marriage doctors" at the University of Chicago are setting up a "clinic" which they believe will enable them to predict matrimonial success or failure with remarkable accuracy.

Some nine years of investigation by Dr. Ernest W. Burgess and Dr. Leonard S. Cottrell, jr., sociologists, have convinced them that the probabilities of martial happiness can be determined by means of scientific scoring not unlike the principles used in intelligence tests.

The second phase of the professors' work will be a 10-year study, which includes the establishment of an institute for research in marriage relationships. Their findings up to now have been based upon 100 detailed case studies and 526 questionnaires from married persons.

The scientists found, on the basis of their studies, that the happy marriages of parents were the best guarantees of happy marriages for their children.

The matrimonial outlook was described as somewhat more favorable for an eldest child than for the others in the order of birth.

"The best combination seems to be marriage of eldest with eldest," Dr. Burgess related. "The most unfavorable is that of only child with only child, or only with youngest. The reason seems to be that they are more dependent upon their parents and others than the middle or eldest children and, therefore, it is more difficult to assume the responsibilities of marriage.

"Premarital economic standing virtually disappeared from the group of items significant in marital adjustment, a finding quite unexpected."

Married Women In Cuba Given Civil Equality

HAVANA — (ANS) — Civil equality for married women has been written into the new constitution of Cuba which is being framed by the Constituent assembly delegates. In the future wives will be able to administer and use the income from their property, engage in industry or commerce, practice an art or profession without the permission of their husbands—a right they have never had under the old Spanish civil code still in effect.

Women were not permitted to have bank accounts without a husband's permission and, once given, the dominant male could draw on the account at will. If the law were invoked, women were unable to travel or leave home without the permission of their legal mates.

The first step in the emancipation of Cuban women was taken by Dr. Ramon Grau in 1933 when, as provisional president he approved a decree giving women the vote and enabling them to hold political office. Since then several women have been elected to the lower house of congress.

CHAPTER XVIII

She almost wished she had told him some of the exciting things that had already happened; about Walpi Tom, who was away tonight; about Cissy, the big panther; and—oh so many things. But she addressed her letter to Mr. R. G. Bickford, care of Bickford, Cullum and McIntyre, Attorneys, Empire State Building, New York City. First thing tomorrow morning she would put it out for her rural postman to take.

"I ought to have written them all about the excitement at the canyon, I suppose," she told herself. "But there's too much of it."

She was alone in her big upstairs room at the trading post. She looked at her wrist watch—11:10 o'clock—then verified it by the tiny clock on her mantle. Because the night air was quite cold, even in summer, she had a blaze in the fireplace, small but warming and cheerful. Before it now she undressed and stepped into silk pajamas that were robin's-egg blue and had tan-colored lace inset and around the edges. Idly she tightened a silk string belt, staring into the blaze and thinking.

This day had been a hectic one.

"Gee golly!" she murmured aloud, although alone. She shook her head, thinking back. The president was enough to excite the countryside. But there had been a program and a most colorful assembly of peoples and costumes, and of course the incomparable scenery of the Grand Canyon itself, and finally a daring rescue in which had figured her own friends.

She had helped Monty Montgomery bathe his wounds. Oddly, and shockingly, Monty who had actually risked his life to save a little Indian boy, had been forgotten seemingly by everybody within five minutes after the rescue was over! The crowd had turned back to the president and to handsome, confident Bob King.

She recalled her own part with a definite shame. She, too, had been staring moon-eyed at Bob there beside the president's platform while Monty had been left to go off alone and hunt a water hydrant.

But wasn't that all right, she asked herself now. Wasn't she in love with Bob King? Shouldn't she, therefore, think first of him?

Monty hadn't been badly hurt, but he certainly had taken grave risks. When she got to him he was trembling noticeably in the hands, and his face was quite drawn—a reaction from the danger a few minutes before. Monty was a sensitive soul. And of course the poor man felt that she would mistake the trembling for fear, which made him even more miserable. Men are such—such nondiscerning things. Goodness!

She wondered at the peculiar fickleness of human nature even as she hastily tried to make up for it by dressing Monty's wounds and generally being nice to him. She even remembered that the newsreel man had taken a close-up of Bob, not of Monty, after the rescue. Of course the cameras had been turned on Bob when he made his speech, too.

The speech was all right, she supposed. Bob had struggled with his delivery. His vocabulary was poor. He used big words in the wrong places and it sounded kind of shallow therefore. Still, he made a good impression; the president had thanked him again.

Toasting herself before her late fire tonight, Rosemary thought of all those swift details that had made the day exciting, and finally burrowed under bed covers still thinking of them. Arizona—it had proved to be a marvelous place. So utterly different from anything she had imagined. She laughed to think what she had expected out here.

In ten minutes, or maybe it was two, she was asleep.

The fire reluctantly dwindled, clung on for an hour or so as friendly, hopeful coals, and finally slept too. Somewhere in the forest an animal called, wolf or coyote, and a few night birds talked back and forth, otherwise only Rosemary's own healthy breathing disturbed the silence in her trading post room.

It was just after 4 a. m. when Rosemary drifted into consciousness again. From somewhere in the mysterious netherland of sleep she came to earth and found herself staring at the luminous dial of her clock. First impulse was one of curiosity—why had she awakened at this hour?

There was a vague noise, as of muffled car exhausts somewhere. Or no, it was something different. She lifted her head off her pillow an inch.

"MM-M-M-M-M-m-m-m!" it sounded, a distinct but far away groan.

Still somewhat hazy, she thought it must be in the next apartment, somebody who had gotten in late or was ill. Slowly, though, she realized that this was Arizona, not New York. Immediately she sat straight up in bed.

Obligingly the sound came again.

"Walpi isn't here!" she whispered, in sudden alarm.

That was true. Walpi Tom, her Hopi Indian helper, had asked permission to absent himself for the night. Twice before he had gone to an Indian village twelve miles away after the day's work was done at the post. Rosemary had not denied him that. He worked faithfully until 9 or 10 p. m. anyway, and certainly he deserved complete freedom after work hours, although normally he just stayed with his squaw, Pola, in their two back rooms. Rosemary never saw much of Pola, who was shy and retiring, as are most Indian women. Doubtless Pola had accompanied her husband when he left last evening. She usally did.

By this time Rosemary was fully awake, and when the sound came a third time she tried to analyze it. "MM-M-M-M-M—mmmm-mmm!" it sounded exactly like someone in distress, or like a story-teller simulating the groaning of ghosts to scare little children. In spite of herself she had a few seconds of definite fright there in her bed. Her heart pounded. She wanted to cover up her head as a little girl would.

It came then again—a groan, as of a person in pain. Wordless, yet appealing. Moreover, it wasn't as far away as it had seemed at first.

By sheer force of will Rosemary threw off her initial fear, stepped out of bed and clicked on her electric light. The bright glow brought her instant poise. Standing there for a moment, she even smiled; odd how ghosts vanish in the light, imaginary as well as real ghosts!

"I Enjoy More Relief Than In Years and Thank Vendol"

Lexington Resident Was Bothered Daily with Gas in Stomach, "Heartburn", Acid Risings, Pains, and Cramps, Due to Constipation. Says Nothing Ever Helped Like Vendol.

MRS. MINNIE WONDLE

"For the past few years I have been in rather poor health and have taken various medicines, but received little relief, so when Vendol was so highly praised by everyone, I began taking it, and now I enjoy more relief than I had known in years," said Mrs. Minnie Wondle, well known resident of Lexington, Ohio, near Mansfield.

"I really believe my troubles came from constipation, which brought on other outward symptoms. No matter how carefully I selected my food, it disagreed with me, causing sour stomach, gas, "heartburn", acid risings in my throat, and shortness of breath. I frequently felt bilious, my tongue was coated, and there was a bad taste in my mouth most all the time.

"It was really surprising, the promptness with which Vendol acted upon my bowels and relieved the constipation. It just seemed to clean me out thoroughly, although the action was pleasant, and now I am entirely relieved of the gassy, sour condition in my stomach.

"My tongue has lost that white coating and I get up every morning feeling rested and refreshed, from a good night's rest. This is something I had not enjoyed for a long time.

"You can't put me down as a strong friend to Vendol, and I have already advised a number of people to try it."

If Vendol helped this person living right near here, it will do the same for you, so why not begin taking this double-acting compound made from Senna, Dandelion, Queen's Root, May Apple, Anis Seed, and 7 other roots and herbs combined with valuable alkalines. Come to Central Drug Store, corner Main and Fourth streets, learn how Vendol will help you also. All drug stores sell Vendol.

Democrats Convinced Roosevelt Will Be Nominated

SCRAMBLE FOR SECOND PLACE SELECTION ON

Speculation Rife on F. D. R.'s Plans for Accepting Third Term.

By JACK VINCENT

WASHINGTON —(INS)— More and more Democrats on Capitol Hill believed today that President Roosevelt would allow the Democratic national convention at Chicago 10 days hence to nominate him for a third term.

This belief, widely-held, opened two avenues of speculation among politicos in Washington. They were:

1. That Mr. Roosevelt might, after being nominated, decline to accept and stampede the convention to the candidate he personally picks.

2. That he might accept with a reservation that, if re-elected, he be allowed to resign when the international crisis is over and hand the White House over to his vice-president.

Because of the latter possibility, there was a great deal of political jockeying behind the scenes in Washington for the second place on the Democratic ticket.

More than a dozen names were expected to be placed in nomination for the vice-presidency, including those of Secretary of State Hull, Supreme Court Justice Douglas, Attorney General Jackson, Postmaster General Farley, Sen. Wheeler of Montana, Sen. Lucas of Illinois, Speaker Bankhead, House Majority Leader Rayburn, Gov. Stark of Missouri, Vice President Garner and Social Security Administrator McNutt.

In contrast, at this pre-convention date, only three names were certain to be placed in nomination for the presidency—one of those that of Mr. Roosevelt himself.

Whether Roosevelt runs again or not, the names of Wheeler and Farley also were to be presented to the convention for first place on the ticket.

Because of the short time until the Chicago meeting, Democrats in congress believed that Mr. Roosevelt would remain the sphinx on his third term intentions until after the balloting starts. His silence was preventing a mad pre-convention scramble among other presidential hopefuls for delegates, and it also was keeping those threatening to form a third party in doubt.

New Dealers and most Democrats were not worried by the third party threat. A few, however, were grumbling over Mr. Roosevelt's silence. Sen. Van Nuys (D. Ind.), said:

"The president's continued silence has embarrassed the party, and will, I am afraid, result in a snap convention which may nominate a ticket not as well balanced as our opponents' ticket.

"Of course, Mr. Roosevelt can be renominated if he wants to, but I'm very fearful of a third-term. If Sen. Wheeler should organize a third party, it might seriously handicap Democratic success."

However, Sen Norris (I. Neb.), said that a third party would be "absolute folly."

There was even some talk in Washington about the possibility that the president might refuse to let the convention force him into revealing his third term stand. He could do this, it was said, by allowing the convention to nominate him and then promise to give his answer in two or three weeks.

It was recalled in this connection that the president had wanted August conventions. It was also significant that the president has told his friends that he would like to see a short campaign.

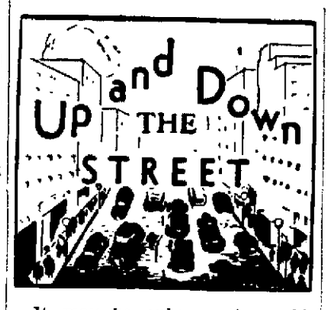
Lingering Illness Fatal To Man Who Lived Near Crestline.

CRESTLINE—William Strauch, 73, died at the home of his sister, Miss Margaret Strauch, north of here, Thursday morning after a lingering illness. He was born April 4, 1867, the son of the late Christian and Kathryn Strauch.

The body was removed to the Beck Funeral home where arrangements are incomplete for the funeral.

O.K. $427,000 Budget for Richland County



It may be only another odd-shaped stamp to you, but Mansfield philatelists know that the three-center which went on sale at the post office today is another in the series of state commemoratives. This one honors the entry of Idaho into the Union 60 years ago and shows the state capitol on the face of the stamp. Another in the same series goes on sale here July 10. It will commemorate the 50th year of statehood for Wyoming and will carry the state seal.

Trying to estimate the number of persons who witnessed the fireworks display last night at the Fairground stumped officers and Parks association officials who handled the big crowd. Ed Wyllie, chairman of the celebration committee, finally figured it this way: The crowd covered a space an eighth of a mile long and 50 feet deep around the stage in front of the grandstand, and figuring approximately a square foot of space per person, that would mean 33,000 persons were inside the fence around the race track. That figure, however, didn't include other thousands seated in cars at the grounds and at other places in the city.

His friends today were looking with special interest at a post card Phil Schmutzler had enclosed in a letter from Gravenhurst, Ont., where he is on vacation in the Georgian bay region. The card showed an aerial view of the Gravenhurst sanatorium where 500 Germans, most of them officers, are being held prisoners of war. Generally speaking, the war has not greatly affected Canadian prices on food, with the exception of coffee which is selling for 50 cents a pound, Phil wrote. It hadn't hurt the fishing, either. Phil reported getting "a real nice bunch of bass today," which is probably his modest way of saying his party got its limit.

Almost all of us have something to be grateful for these days. But few of us would show our gratitude to the extent Herb Woodten, new Braves outfielder, did Wednesday night when Mansfield played Tiffin. Woodten, who has been in a batting slump, finally got a homer over the centerfield fence. When he approached home plate he was so gleeful he knelt down and planted a wet smack square on the old platter. Needless to say, the fans roared at this display of affection.

G. O. P. CAMPAIGN SETUP STUDIED

Willkie to Name Manager When New Chairman Selected.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The name of the new chairman of the Republican national committee was expected today to come out of a conference between Wendell Willkie, presidential nominee, and the sub-committee charged with making the selection in co-operation with him.

The nominee spent another full day in his office on the July Fourth holiday and held at least one conference while waving a sandwich in one hand and a bottle of milk in the other.

At his press conference of the day, Willkie said that he would meet with the sub-committee this afternoon. If the national chairman is named at the session, the candidate said he will simultaneously announce the name of his campaign manager.

The campaign manager is to coordinate the work of the national committee and the volunteer groups.

Willkie's plans for the next few days, still tentative, call for a full day in Washington on Monday after which he planned to drive to Rushville, Indiana, to spend a few days with a side trip to nearby Elwood, his birthplace.

In Washington he was to meet Senator Charles McNary, his running mate, for a discussion of campaign plans and he hoped to meet all the Republican members of congress at an informal reception. He planned to fly to Washington some time Sunday.

UNABLE TO SEND FOOD TO HIS MOTHER, MANSFIELDER WEEPS

A Mansfield food merchant today received a plea for food, written in the handwriting of his aged mother in Poland, which he will be unable to answer. The message came directly from mother to son through the Red Cross.

Carl Sternbaum, grocery man at 43 Vale avenue, enlisted the aid of the Richland County chapter of Red Cross some time ago in locating his mother, 76, and three sisters, who resided in Warsaw, Poland. He had contributed to the support of his mother for many years, but after Germany and Russia waged war on Poland, he had been unsuccessful in getting money through to her.

On one occasion he sent money and she received only a few dollars of it, and another time attempted to send food but was unsuccessful. When he could get no word from his mother and sisters he enlisted the aid of the Red Cross.

The local office contacted the American Red Cross, with a message in Mr. Sternbaum's own handwriting which was to be delivered to his mother if she could be found. The messsage went to the International Red Cross and finally reached Red Cross workers in Poland.

The return message, written in the uncertain hand of his aged mother was received by the Red Cross here this morning. It said:

"Dear Son and Brother: We are well and live at the same address. We ask you ever so much for a package with food. Tell David to send food, too."

David is another son living in New York City. Today Mr. Sternbaum read the plea for food with tears streaming down his face. "I have a store full of food," he said, "and I can give none of it to my mother who may be starving."

Neither food nor money, he was told in New York, would be likely to reach his family now.

The body was removed to the family home in Mantua, O., near Cleveland, where funeral services were held Thursday at 9:30 a. m. Surviving were her father, three brothers, and a sister, Stella, who has visited here many times.

PLAN BUDGET SESSION

SHELBY—A special meeting of city council may be called by Finance Director Chester Monn for Monday night to pass on the tentative budget for operation of municipal government for the fiscal year of 1940-41, city officials disclosed today.

BODY FOUND

COMMISSIONERS SEEK $21,000 MORE FOR 1941

Increased Allocation Based on Anticipated Hike in Revenue For District.

A Richland county budget calling for the expenditure of $427,000 for operating activities in 1941, an increase of $21,000 over this year, had been approved today by county commissioners.

The increase, distributed generally to the county departments, were written into the budget in anticipation of marked gains in tax revenue next year, Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck said.

He said the county expected to receive at least $9,000 more from classified personal tax receipts, while a gain of $2,000,000 in the county tax duplicate should produce several thousand dollars more.

The county, debt free for the first time in a quarter century, dropped a one-tenth mill tax levy for debt purposes, leaving the rate at 2.5 mills for 1941.

Beck said the budget commission figured on the basis of an increase of $24,000 in auto license and gas tax fees for next year, giving the county road department $226,000 for operating purposes as compared to about $200,000 this year.

Salary increases totaling $2,600 for two of the three county commissioners were provided for in the budget. The pay boosts were authorized in a state law which went into effect recently.

A $1,000 increase was set up in the county aid for dependent children division's budget, making a total of $34,000 requested for that department next year. Other supplementary funds will be provided by the state and federal governments.

Most of the departments probably will get the amounts they requested when appropriations are made, Beck said, because department heads were told previously how much they will have available and virtually all of them limited their requests to the figures previously set up.

PLAN PETITION

Jehovah's Witnesses Continue Plea for Fairground.

COLUMBUS—(UP)—C. R. Hessler, attorney for Jehovah's Witnesses, said officials of the sect would present a petition of 1,500,000 signatures to Governor Bricker today asking him to revoke cancellation of a permit to give the sect use of the state fairground for a national convention.

Agents for Jehovah's Witnesses lost their application for an injunction in federal court to compel state officials to lease the fairground to the sect. Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood ruled his court has no jurisdiction.

Counsel for the plaintiff said an appeal would be made to the U. S. circuit court of appeals at Cincinnati.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

You Meet Such Interesting People.
(And It's the Little Things You Remember.)

Tommy Manville wears a gray dinner jacket with blue satin lapels, the only one like it in the Stork club. . . . Peggy McEvoy, pretty wife of Writer J. P. (and now a magazine columnist herself) has a habit of refusing to be served by a waiter until she has learned his name. She jots the monicker down in a little notebook, memorizes it (in connection with the face) and when she returns to the restaurant, she's able to call the garcon something a little more intimate than "waiter." You should see the service she gets!

Jimmy Stewart never poses for pictures while he's taking a drink or smoking a cigaret, because his studio would scold . . . Lady Mendl (Elsie de Wolfe) used to have her green hair coiffed every day in Paris. Wonder what she's doing about it now? . . . Bill Robinson, the all-time tapdancer, can tell more policemen by their first names than anyone I know, which is probably one reason why his Dusenberg is whisked through traffic with unusual ceremony . . . Myrna Loy sends her friends white carnations.

Rosalind Russell has the best reputation of any Hollywood star for being nice to tradespeople, and when she goes to the hairdresser she always brings along someone to keep her company . . . Broadway Rose, the strange muttering mendicant of the bright light zone, attracts the attention of first nighters and cafe goers with her tattered, shabby wardrobe, but she keeps a change of clothing in the subway lockers at the 50th Street station . . . I never saw Sammy Kendis, the Beachcomber bandleader, wearing a hat or coat—even in a blizzard.

Maxwell Anderson drinks milk all the time. When he's on a real spree he has it flavored with chocolate sauce.

Sometimes I think Noel Soward smokes a cigarette more for the artistic effect than for the tobacco. He can do more with a cigaret than Sally Rand can with a fan . . . Audrey Palmer, the "DuBarry" dancer, sometimes brings her knitting to night clubs and clicks away at her sweaters while the floor show goes on . . . Hildegarde has the Continental habit of asking a question with "Yes? No?" tacked on the end—something she never picked up in Milwaukee.

When Sonja Henie goes to a night club, she orders the ingredients for a champagne cocktail and mixes them herself in a water glass.

Jerry—who as far as I know has no other name is a shoeshine boy who plies his trade under the Broadway lights each night and is never bothered by the cops. They remember that he was once Jack (Legs) Diamond's favorite luckpiece—and he once kidded the gangster out of drilling a Harlem policeman who had made Diamond mad by giving his driver a ticket for speeding.

Benny Fields, one of the most persistent story-tellers around Lindy's is also one of the most persistent fixtures at the Polo Grounds . . . Eleanor Holm loves to lead conga lines in night clubs, but her husband, a shy terpsichorean, refuses to budge from his chair, dismissing the nonsense with "I'm too busy."

Hendrik Van Loon is a menu-sketcher, and he's forever sending notes to someone across the room when he dines at a restaurant . . . Marianne, the torch singer with Jack Teagarden's hot band, used to wear a bonnet and hit a tambourine in street prayer meetings when she was Marianne Dunne, daughter of the Akron commander of the Volunteers of America.

When he's angry, Mayor LaGuardia is a fist-shaker . . Hope Hampton always eats two desserts . . . Rudy Vallee gets that breakfast-food-advertisement look by playing tennis almost every day . . . George Jessel's best epigrams are usually by Oscar Wilde.

When Herbert Marshall goes into a shop to buy anything, he has to select it from a large assortment—he just won't buy a thing from a small collection, even if he sees something he adores . . . Bob Chester, the swing band leader, is the only layman who has a uniform in the locker room of the Detroit Tigers. He tries to route his band to major league cities, so he can work out in the morning practice with the ball teams.

Josephine Houston, who sings exotic ballads at the Waldorf, spends more time browsing in antique shops than she does vocalizing She's an old-china-and-clocks collector . . . Dan Topping, even at tony places like the St. Regis Viennese Roof, is a soda pop sipper . . . . Fred McMurray worries constantly about his No. 2 chin.

Even in the most gilded restaurants, Morris Gest polishes his silverware with a napkin as if he were in an uncertain hash house . . . Sentimental Patsy Kelley, the screen comedienne, calls people up even when they're three thousand miles away just to say "thanks" for a birthday present, no matter how trifling it is . . . Tom Tully, the microphone thespian, has a passion for pearl-gray shirts—thinks he sounds better when he's wearing one . . . Kelcey Allen, the amiable drama critic, never comes to premieres without a pocketful of candy or cough drops, which he doles out to his fellow-sufferers . . . When Lolita Cordoba gets excited, she looks her Spanish accent, and talks exactly like a New Yorker.

Jack Dempsey's knees must be worn out from bending under tables in prayerful attitudes, just to give a pal a hot foot . . . When Dorothy Lamour first invaded Hollywood, she almost swooned with sheer joy because a tourist mistook her for Rochelle Hudson as she was leaving the Brown Derby.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If there are any fans with the impression that the British actors wearing make-up here rather than uniforms there are lacking in patriotism, a simple look at the books should label the impression false.

In the first place, British subjects in the movies are subject to call to active military service when needed. They are obeying their government's desire when they remain here making pictures, not necessarily their own wishes. They are supposed to be rendering patriotic service by depicting the best qualities of the English on the screen, but more practically perhaps they are making a real contribution to their country cause—in cash.

It can be figured very simply. Say that Brian Aherne, for an example at random, earns approximately $200,000 a year making movies. He cuts from that about 20 per cent, or $60,000, for U. S. income taxes, another slice for state taxes, and then 30 per cent of the remainder, or some $40,000, goes to British income taxes.

Add up the contributions in taxes by other Hollywood Britons, men and women, and you see a pretty good reason for their government's keeping them here no matter how dashing you or they think they'd look in uniform. Their contributions will be even heavier aside from their own private gift to war relief—with Britain's upped tax rates.

The same goes for the French Charles Boyer, who served in the army for a time and was then released to return to Hollywood. England called David Niven probably because of his Sundhurst (West Point of England) training—but maybe also because they knew his infectiously cheerful personality could work wonders in the morale division. Even so, no mater how stiff a fighter Davey turned out to be, it's doubtful if one man in uniform could do as much as that man's movie salary taxed for armament—and I wish the British would see the light and send their Niven back.

While on the war I'd like to send a verbal stinkpot to whoever originated the suggestion that Bob Montgomery, American-born, took that ambulance-driving job in France because he was "slipping" and the "publicity" would bring him back on top.

In the first place, Bob isn't "slipping" in pictures. "The Earl of Chicago" may not have set the world on fire, but it was a fine movie and the Montgomery performance was the finest thing in it.

In the second place, Bob has always been a champion of the underdog. Not showily, and not just in talk, but in deeds.
